

ENDOCRINE SYSTEM

Endocrine System: WORKING TOGETHER

Each organ system works on other systems within the body to do its "job". See below to learn just some of the ways that the endocrine system interacts with other organ systems.

Nervous System

Circulatory System

Endocrine System: FACTS

Endocrine System: PROBLEMS

Most of the time, the endocrine system works perfectly well. However, sometimes problems can arise.

Diabetes

Diabetes is a condition that causes high blood glucose (sugar) levels. It is caused by the body being unable to either produce or use the hormone insulin. So, the glucose (sugar) gets stuck in the blood. Symptoms include increased thirst, weight gain, changes in vision, frequent urination, increased hunger, mood swings, and changes in weight. Symptoms can also include slow wound healing, numbness or tingling in the hands.

Endocrine System: KEY TERMS

Term	Definition
Endocrine System	Network of endocrine glands that make, store, and release hormones.
Hormones	Chemical messengers that carry information and instructions from one cell to another.

Endocrine System: HORMONES

Hormones are chemical signals. Hormones are released by a gland into the bloodstream. They travel through the bloodstream and bind to target cells. This causes the target cells to perform a specific function. Hormones can be made by the endocrine system or by other parts of the body.

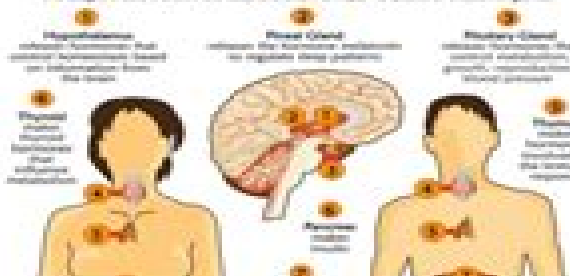

Endocrine System: FIGHT-OR-FLIGHT

The fight-or-flight response is a reaction that occurs in the body when we are really frightened. The hormone adrenaline (also known as epinephrine) is released by the adrenal glands. Adrenaline causes the heart to beat faster, the lungs to take in more oxygen, and the muscles to be ready for action. This helps us to react quickly to a dangerous situation. In addition, the body's response to stress prepares us to deal with the danger.

Endocrine System: GLANDS

A gland is a structure that produces and releases substances that perform a specific function in the body. There are many different types of glands in the body. Some glands release substances into the bloodstream, while others release substances directly into the body. Glands are part of the endocrine system. Some glands produce hormones, while others produce other substances. The diagram below shows the location and function of some of the major glands in the body.

Endocrine System: FEEDBACK LOOPS

Endocrine activities are regulated by complex feedback loops. These feedback loops help the body maintain a stable internal environment. When a hormone is released, it acts on target cells to cause a response. This response then feeds back to the gland that released the hormone, telling it to stop or start releasing the hormone. This is called a feedback loop. The diagram below shows how a feedback loop works.
