

Interview 2: questions

- Thinking about the whole experience of rehearsing and performing in the festival, what did you enjoy the most? Why?
- Can you tell me about your painting and the feelings you were trying to convey?
- What did you hear or what did you notice about the King Street performance and those of other schools?
- What do you think you have learnt since you have been doing music at school?
- Has music become more important to you in your life since you have been doing music at school? If so, how?
- Do you ever just think about music? What do you think?
- If there was something that you wanted to do in music, or know about music, what would it be?
- If you had $500.00 to spend on music, what would you buy?

The second interview was dominated by the children's responses to participating in the festival. Discussion of the festival began with the following question.

- Thinking about the whole experience of rehearsing and performing, what did you enjoy the most?

All of the children mentioned excitement and happiness about performing, even though initially they were apprehensive about making mistakes.

Leo: It felt really cool, and I went in and the curtains were closed and I thought, wow, we have to sing with the curtains closed, and then the curtains opened and I went, oh no!

Curtis: At the start, I was worrying whether we would mess up or something. We couldn't re-perform. You can't re-perform...do it again. There [was] also happy in it because it's my first time performing. It's like a maze because you don't where you are going. You don't know where you are going and you are trapped and scared.
