

Accounting issues

- If it is determined Razor has a going concern issue the financial statements would have to be stated at a liquidation value.
Need to discuss more about it.
The injection from DE should be considered a liability " arguments for recording as long term debt: DE has stated that it wants Razor to pay back the 2M in the next few years which is more than a year so long term".
IFRS XXXX – equity, the instrument must not included a contractual obligation to deliver cash or another financial asset to an entity and that the presentation should be based on the overall substance rather than the form of the transaction.
The parent company wants to be repaid in the next few year was indication that the transaction had the substance of a liability and not that of an equity transaction.
- MM account receivable was probably overvalued, "to date there is discrepancy of 225000 which may be potentially be written off if MM is unwilling to pay".
Case facts should support the impairment, such as MM was paying according to the market price of steel instead of the amount of the invoice.
There is a dispute between Razor and MM. what is it? And how it could affect the valuation of AR.
- Preferred shares
- Value of the scrap inventory
Even if part of the inventory came from off-cuts, those scrap pieces still had some value on the market. The net realisable value ($400/tonne at year end X3, 200 tonnes = $80000) and the scrap inventory should be written down by $212000.

The impact of accounting issues on the planning and performance of the audit and suggests additional procedures

Procedures

- The risk in the areas of the preferred shares and patent need to hire an expert to review the value of the patent to determine the actual write down amount
- AR
An appropriate procedure would have been to look at subsequent payments after year-end in order to validate if the amounts were ultimately collected or to see if there is a written agreement between Razor and MM that could clarify what the sale price should be (invoice or market rate). If you would have that agreement, then you could go back to the last 180 days invoice to ensure that they were in accordance with that agreement.
- Inventory
An appropriate procedure to gain assurance over the existence of the inventory would have been to do a count as soon as possible and reconcile over the valuation of the inventory would have been to look at subsequent sales of scrap metal from Razor or to validate the market rate with an outside source.
