Political Economy of Power Sharing in Developing Countries Akietuwopiribie Opuene Hart,2025-08-07 Political Economy of Power Sharing in Developing Countries is an in depth examination of factors that trigger the clamor for power sharing zoning and rotation in mostly developing countries These provocations include geographical ethnic and religious identity factors that can influence the political process in varying degrees from country to country The impact goes a long way in determining the stability and instability of the political process in various countries The reasons for these differences and the impacts are a combination of the endogenous variables in the first instance which are the primary prompters Other elements which are the exogenous factors are secondary prompters When these converge they produce a peculiar impact in a given society based on the characteristic variables and the resulting outcome The new paradigm shifts in the agitation in developing countries is demonstrated by an elitist instrument of marginalization and self aggrandizement The masses are hoodwinked sensitized and manipulated through primal sentiment to support the elites in acquiring political power which in turn enables the acquisition of economic power

strong opinions about the EU and interactive online media allow these opinions to come to the fore to be challenged and amplified both within and beyond national public spheres Yet for all its potential to unite European publics online EU contestation remains firmly anchored in offline news media frames while citizens and journalists alike struggle to put forward a clear vision of the future EU polity

Liberal Realism: Politics of Difference Beyond the Universalist-Contextualist Debate Ivane Lomidze, 2025-05-06 The central issue explored in this book is the problem of difference in democratic theory focusing on the debates between liberalism and realism Realist theories critique liberal models for ignoring community specific differences and reducing plural forms of life to a homogeneous political project This book argues that while realist models challenge the universalism of liberalism they fail to normatively ground the adjudication of differences and cannot distinguish between legitimate and illegitimate political practices The core argument proposes the development of particularist political principles as a solution providing an ethical framework for adjudicating difference without relying on universal norms Drawing on moral particularism the book demonstrates how contingent context dependent reasoning can resolve issues of representation and pluralism in democracy while avoiding the pitfalls of both universalism and discriminatory practices This research is relevant for scholars of political theory exploring new approaches to grounding pluralism and difference in contemporary democratic thought

Price, 1996-03-14 In a cultural history which considers the transformation of south Indian institutions under British colonial rule in the nineteenth century Pamela Price focuses on the two former little kingdoms of Ramnad and Sivagangai which came under colonial governance as revenue estates She demonstrates how rivalries among the royal families and major zamindari temples and the disintegration of indigenous institutions of rule contributed to the development of nationalist ideologies and new political identities among the people of southern Tamil country The author also shows how religious symbols and practices going back to the seventeenth century were reformulated and acquired a new significance in the colonial context Arguing for a reappraisal of the relationship of Hinduism to politics Price finds that these symbols and practices continue to inform popular expectation of political leadership today Ethnicity, Democracy and Citizenship in Africa Samantha Balaton-Chrimes, 2016-03-09 As an ethnic minority the Nubians of Kenya are struggling for equal citizenship by asserting themselves as indigenous and autochthonous to Kibera one of Nairobi's most notorious slums Having settled there after being brought by the British colonial authorities from Sudan as soldiers this appears a peculiar claim to make It is a claim that illuminates the hierarchical nature of Kenya's ethnicised citizenship regime and the multi faceted nature of citizenship itself This book explores two kinds of citizenship deficits those experienced by the Nubians in Kenya and more centrally those which represent the limits of citizenship theories The author argues for an understanding of citizenship as made up of multiple component parts status rights and membership which are often disaggregated through time across geographic spaces and amongst different people This departure from a unitary language of citizenship allows a novel analysis of the central role of ethnicity in the recognition of political membership and distribution of political goods in Kenya Such an analysis generates important insights into the risks and possibilities of a relationship between ethnicity and democracy that is of broad global relevance
