the Russian Federation which continues to have one of the lowest shares of innovative founders provides an ideal setting for investigating the tedious efforts to tilt at the windmills of transition Accordingly the book is a must read for researchers scholars practitioners and policymakers seeking a better understanding of spatial economics entrepreneurship economic development transition economics public administration and political studies Creative Economies, Creative Cities Lily Kong, Justin O'Connor, 2009-05-19 Justin O'Connor and Lily Kong The cultural and creative industries have become increasingly prominent in many policy agendas in recent years Not only have governments identified the growing consumer potential for cultural creative industry products in the home market they have also seen the creative industry agenda as central to the growth of external markets This agenda stresses creativity innovation small business growth and access to global markets all central to a wider agenda of moving from cheap manufacture towards high value added products and services The increasing importance of cultural and creative industries in national and city policy agendas is evident in Hong Kong Singapore Taiwan South Korea Beijing Shanghai and Guangzhou Australia and New Zealand and in more nascent ways in cities such as Chongqing and Wuhan Much of the thinking in these cities countries has derived from the European and North American policy landscape Policy debate in Europe and North America has been marked by ambiguities and tensions around the connections between cultural and economic policy which the creative industry agenda posits These become more marked because the key drivers of the creative economy are the larger metropolitan areas so that cultural and economic policy also then intersect with urban planning policy and governance Innovation, Globalization and Firm Dynamics

Anna Ferragina, Erol Taymaz, Kamil Yilmaz, 2014-03-14 This book is about the relationship between firm dynamics innovation and globalization the processes that are essential for long term economic growth and welfare creation This volume deals with these three issues in three sections titled respectively entrepreneurship new firm formation and growth productivity innovation growth nexus globalization multinational firms and producers dynamics The book presents new studies written by distinguished researchers in the field who use state of the art methodologies and extensive sources of firm and plant level longitudinal data to analyze and understand these major economic issues facing modern economies In the first section the book proposes two comprehensive introductory surveys which explore in detail the underpinnings of entrepreneurship new firm formation and growth in advanced and developing countries The second fundamental issue productivity innovation and firm dynamics is approached by examining key drivers of selection mechanisms such as size scale elasticity innovative efforts financial fragility of the firms barriers to entry and exit capital and financial market distortions institutional inefficiencies and other market imperfections which affect the ability of firms to expand or enter The third section examines differences linkages and intertwined evolution of foreign and domestic firms in their dynamics of survival and growth in different institutional contexts and periods Each chapter includes a detailed discussion of the implications of the respective analyses for enterprise policy In a concluding chapter the overall implications for enterprise policy of the analyses presented in the different chapters are drawn by the Editors This approach ensures that the book is integrated around a coherent central theme in comprehensive framework The book responds to a growing concern among scholars professionals and policy makers over the recent decades about firm ability to survive and compete in a context of increasing globalization and international competition The approach adopted is both theoretical and empirical with consideration of paradigmatic case studies in Europe Africa and Asia providing new evidence on developed developing and transition economies in a comparative perspective The cases selected represent different levels of development different firms strategies and paths with distinct outcomes The book is an essential reading for scholars and students concerned with industry development public policy and globalization as well as to all those involved professionally in such issues
