Annual Report*, 1996 On-Site Drug Testing Amanda J. Jenkins, Bruce A. Goldberger, 2002-01-28 It is at least a decade since scientists turned their imaginations to creating new compact portable test instruments and self contained test kits that could be used to analyze urine and saliva for alcohol drugs and their metabolites Although the potential applications for such tests at the site of specimen collection now called on site or point of care testing range far beyond hospital emergency rooms and law enforcement needs it was catalyzed by the requirements of workplace drug testing and other drugs of abuse testing programs These programs are now a minor national industry in the United States and in some western European countries and cover populations as diverse as the military incarcerated criminals people suspected of driving under the influence of alcohol and other drugs all athletes from college to professional ranks and of course the general employed population which is monitored for illegal drug use and numbers in the millions It is not surprising then that the need for rapid and precise tests conducted economically by trained professionals has become a major goal Current government approved and peer reviewed laboratory methods for urine analysis serve present needs very well and have become remarkably robust over the past twenty years but the logistics of testing some moving populations such as the military the Coast Guard workers on off shore oil platforms and athletes perhaps the most mobile of these groups are unacceptably cumbersome

Constitutional

Law for Criminal Justice Jacqueline R. Kanovitz,2015-02-11 Criminal justice professionals often do not receive the training they need to recognize the constitutional principles that apply to their daily work Constitutional Law for Criminal Justice offers a way to solve this problem by providing a comprehensive well organized and up to date analysis of constitutional issues that affect criminal justice professionals Chapter 1 summarizes the organization and content of the Constitution the Bill of Rights and the Fourteenth Amendment The next eight chapters cover the constitutional principles that regulate investigatory detentions traffic stops arrests use of force search and seizure technologically assisted surveillance the Wiretap Act interrogations and confessions self incrimination witness identification procedures the right to counsel procedural safeguards during criminal trials First Amendment issues relevant to law enforcement capital punishment and much more The final chapter covers the constitutional rights of criminal justice professionals in the workplace their protection under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act and their accountability under 42 U S C 1983 for violating the constitutional rights of others

Part II contains abstracts of key judicial decisions exemplifying how the doctrines covered in earlier chapters are being applied by the courts. The combination of text and cases creates flexibility in structuring class time. Constitutional Law for Criminal Justice makes complex concepts accessible to students in all levels of criminal justice education. The chapters begin with an outline and end with a summary. Key Terms and Concepts are defined in the Glossary. Tables, figures, and charts are used to synthesize and simplify information. The result is an incomparably clear, student-friendly textbook that has remained a leader in criminal justice education for more than 45 years.

Worker Substance Use and Workplace Policies and Programs
Sharon L. Larson, 2007. Presents findings on substance use among workers on workplace drug policy programs from the 2002, 2003, 2004 National Surveys on Drug Use and Health (NSDUHs). NSDUH is an annual survey of the civilian, non-institutionalized population of the U.S. aged 12 years or older. The survey provides data on substance use-related issues among the U.S. population. NSDUH collects info on employment status, type of business, specific occupations, industries, info on drug testing policies, programs from U.S. workers. This report analyzes the worker info in conjunction with the substance use data collected in the survey to investigate substance use among full-time employed workers aged 18-64 during the period 2002-04. Over 100 tables.
