Mulinge,N. Arasa,2017-05-05 This book examines the concept of the democratization of governance in universities in Kenya with particular emphasis on students involvement in governance processes and decision making Data were collected from members of the student community utilizing a structured self administered questionnaire and from purposively selected key informants and focus group discussants drawn from Kenyatta University representing the public sector and the United States International University representing the private sector The guiding argument for the study was that shared governance one of the principles of good governance is critical in enabling the universities to deliver their visions and the missions effectively The results revealed that while in principle Kenyan universities have embraced democratic governance in which all stakeholders including students have a role to play in practice they continue to violate the core principles of good governance particularly shared governance Specifically students who are major stakeholders in university education are largely excluded from significant structures of governance thereby limiting their influence and participation Although their representation is mainly provided via student self governance organs unions associations and or councils their effectiveness is undermined considerably by the lack of trust and confidence of the student body and the unending manipulation by top university administrators and external political actors Student active involvement in decision making is mainly confined to lower levels such as the school faculty and departmental programme The authors call for a paradigm shift in the involvement of students in the governance of universities in ways that discourage the current culture of tokenism and political correctness that characterizes public and private universities in Kenya

Food Safety in Low and Middle Income Countries Delia Grace, Bassirou Bonfoh, Hung Nguyen-Viet, Barbara Häsler, 2024-02-23 Foodborne diseases FBD are an important externality of agriculture and food systems but only recently have they risen up the development agenda as the result of growing awareness of the health and economic burdens of FBD and how they relate to food systems with a focus on low income and middle income countries LMIC particularly African nations The health burden of FBD is comparable with that of malaria and over 90% falls on people in LMIC with an economic burden of more than US 100 million per year FBD have many other less well estimated effects on nutrition gender equity and the environment While understanding of food safety in domestic markets of LMICs has advanced greatly risk management is in its infancy This Research Topic will bring together leading regional perspectives on food safety in LMICs

Trails in Academic and Administrative Leadership in Kenya Michieka, Ratemo Waya, 2017-05-03 Scholars especially those interested in understanding how leadership has inhibited academic freedom and hindered effectiveness of institutions of higher learning have for long been engaged by the very important manner in which governance and leadership of higher education institutions in Africa is constituted and managed The fact that there has been a dearth of work based on the experiences of those who have served as university leaders has created a major gap Questions remain on how leaders of higher education institutions are identified how they are prepared the personal predispositions that individuals bring to the exercise of such positions and their personal experiences regarding what energizes or inhibits the performance of their work Until recently presidents in most African countries served as chancellors of public universities identification of those who served as university leaders was largely a political process But much has changed with most countries establishing oversight bodies and the overall governance of higher education institutions divorced from the day to day political processes Trails in Academic and Administrative Leadership in Kenya provides a personal account of the experiences in higher education leadership from an individual whose tenure in leadership straddled the two eras In this book Prof Michieka provides an account of how his early education prepared him for roles in academic and institutional leadership in Kenya The author shares his experiences on the trails he had to navigate as an academic a vice chancellor and a chairperson of university council at a time when universities in Kenya were transiting from extreme government administrative control to a greater degree of operational autonomy Readers will find in this work thought provoking insights on how leaders of higher education institutions in Kenya have had to balance between demands of the political system and the need to safeguard academic traditions in the everyday management of the institutions

Global excellence in ethnopharmacology: Africa Hellen Oketch-Rabah, David R. Katerere, Fawzi Mohamad Mahomoodally, 2025-07-31 The practice of traditional medicine in Africa African Traditional Medicine ATM has a long history dating back thousands of years and has resulted in a wealth of therapeutic agents from plants and animals used in the treatment diseases Most of the associated knowledge about these medicines has been passed down from generation to generation via oral folklore However as a result of westernization and globalization and the loss of natural habitats and biodiversity as well as the loss of oral traditions the empirical knowledge associated with medicinal substances is at a risk of being lost forever A great deal of related research has been done and published in academic doctorate and master's theses most of which are available only as hard copies at the respective universities in herbal texts and journals Most of these works have not been published and made available to the international community It is well acknowledged that the origin of many drugs can be traced back to natural sources for example artemisinin ephedrine tubocurarine digoxin reserpine Some popular herbal medicines have their origin in African plants for example Umckaloabo EPs 7630 a standardized proprietary extract of Perlagonium sidoides used in some over the counter medicines for upper respiratory infections Other African plants have also offered medicines and or healthcare products and pharmacologically active compounds e.g. Prunus africana bark extracts for the management for prostate and lower urinary tract symptoms LUTS yohimbe from Pausinystalia johimbe or Bitter Aloe or Cape Aloes Aloe ferox This Research Topic is intended to highlight primary research on pharmacological and biological effects of plants fungi animals microorganisms and minerals used in African traditional medicine for humans and livestock We welcome articles on the documentation of indigenous knowledge on medicines and medical practices the pharmacology and pharmacognosy of indigenous African medicines and the search for pharmacologically active principles of traditional African medicines Review articles covering the study areas delineated above should reflect the multi disciplinary

Africa and Sustainable Global Value Chains Regina Frei, Sherwat Ibrahim, Temidayo Akenroye, 2022-02-07 This book contains a collection of studies on the interactions between businesses in Africa and Global Value Chains GVCs in terms of social environmental and economic sustainability This is particularly pertinent given the asymmetrical power distribution between the global buyer and the African supplier their governance relationships and the ongoing competitive pressures to reduce costs and increase flexibility to meet GVC demands Rather than focusing on the sustainability of a single organization GVCs address the sustainability of inter firm value chains and global industries as a whole With little differentiation between value chain creation and social environmental degradation extending to people and raw material extraction upstream and disposal or recycling downstream sustainability issues need to be at the forefront of African business research interests Nowadays sustainability is considered a competitive advantage for a firm looking to join a GVC Whether sustainability is approached from the viewpoint of an exporting firm motivated to join a GVC in its respective industry or whether a firm's continuing contractual or collaborative relationship with a buyer depends on its compliance with sustainability standards both approaches focus on the ability of firms in Africa to benefit from joining sustainable GVCs
