

Research Paper: Grade 5

Students are responsible for writing their papers as explained in class. Students will hear a presentation in class about writing their paper including the following topics:

- ❖ Learning to narrow a topic for research
- ❖ Learning to formulate questions about the topic chosen
- ❖ Learning to write a thesis statement
- ❖ Learning to write and know the difference between topic sentences and detail sentences
- ❖ Learning to take notes using a graphic organizer
- ❖ Learning to outline from the graphic organizer
- ❖ Learning to write concluding paragraphs
- ❖ Learning to write a Works Cited page.

Topic: What invention and inventor has had the biggest impact on your life today?

Purpose:

- To inform: give information about your chosen person, summarizing factual information from a variety of sources.
- To analyze: evaluate the research and present your conclusions. The research you include from other sources in your paper should support your conclusion that the inventor you have chosen is relevant to today's world. It is important to remember that this is not a paper where you have room to include your own opinions, particularly if they are not based on research. Even if you know something about your topic, you must back it up with the research found in your sources.
- To persuade: write in such a way that you convince your audience that your invention and inventor is significant to your life today.

Audience: your peers and teacher. Even though you are addressing your peers, you must use formal language. Slang and contractions are NOT allowed.

Point of View: Third person. Do not use any 1st or 2nd person pronouns such as "I" or "you". Instead, write in an objective format. For example: Instead of saying, "I believe the inventor and invention that has the biggest impact on my life today is..." Use this, "The inventor and invention that has the biggest impact on middle school students is..."

Length: Five (5) paragraphs of at least 5 – 7 sentences @ paragraph (not counting your Works Cited page)

Moore,2004 Active Teaching and Active Learning Strategies Creating a Blueprint for Success is the cumulative result of a year of reflecting asking and listening to questions and comments that many have concerning the education of our youth The book s genesis however started many years ago as the state of California along with many other states embraced a standards based accountability system This accountability has now been coupled with the recent addition of The No Child Left Behind Legislation In a real sense we are entering both the best and worst of times I say this because of the effects of high stakes testing and the requirement that all students reach high levels of proficiency which admittedly are very lofty goals For this to be realized changes will be required in teaching and assessment as well as a more concentrated focus on student learning The instructional design introduced in this book advocates four components academic social collaborative contextual and cognitive developmental These components work in tandem with Active Teaching and Learning Strategies Combined they form a student responsive instructional methodology which optimizes student success and academic achievement We wanted to create a book that demonstrated to those of us in the field of education the value of looking at academic standards with data about our students and reflecting on how this information should influence our choices concerning instructional practices and our perceptions about the students that we are entrusted with The focus of this endeavor is to see all students achieve and succeed and to keep passion and compassion at the heart of all that we do It is the premise of this book that the difference between effective and outstanding teachers are that outstanding teachers care know how to utilize data practice active teaching strategies and promote the active learning of students Together these characteristics became the design and course of action that Created a Blueprint for Success

Dependent Data in Social Sciences Research Mark Stemmler, Alexander von Eye, Wolfgang Wiedermann, 2015-10-19 This volume presents contributions on handling data in which the postulate of independence in the data matrix is violated. When this postulate is violated and when the methods assuming independence are still applied, the estimated parameters are likely to be biased and statistical decisions are very likely to be incorrect. Problems associated with dependence in data have been known for a long time and led to the development of tailored methods for the analysis of dependent data in various areas of statistical analysis. These methods include, for example, methods for the analysis of longitudinal data, corrections for dependency and corrections for degrees of freedom. This volume contains the following five sections: growth curve modeling, directional dependence, dyadic data modeling, item response modeling, IRT, and other methods for the analysis of dependent data, e.g., approaches for modeling cross-section dependence, multidimensional scaling techniques, and mixed models. Researchers and graduate students in the social and behavioral sciences, education, econometrics, and medicine will find this up-to-date overview of modern statistical approaches for dealing with problems related to dependent data particularly useful.

Engaging Students in Academic Literacies María Estela Brisk, 2014-07-25 The Common Core State Standards require schools to include writing in a variety of genres across the disciplines. Engaging Students in Academic Literacies provides specific information to plan and carry out genre-based writing instruction in English for K-5 students within various content areas. Informed by systemic functional linguistics, a theory of language IN USE in particular ways for particular audiences and social purposes, it guides teachers in developing students' ability to construct texts using structural and linguistic features of the written language. This approach to teaching writing and academic language is effective in addressing the persistent achievement gap between ELLs and mainstream students, especially in the context of current reforms in the U.S. Transforming systemic functional linguistics and genre theory into concrete classroom tools for designing, implementing, and reflecting on instruction and providing essential scaffolding for teachers to build their own knowledge of its essential elements applied to teaching the text includes strategies for apprenticing students to writing in all genres, features of elementary students' writing, and examples of practice.

Nurturing Your Child's Math and Literacy in Pre-K-Fifth Grade Mary Mueller, Alisa Hindin, 2016-11-23 With recent changes in the curriculum and standards in language arts and mathematics, parents often are challenged to find ways to help their children be successful in their learning endeavors. While parents want to be involved in their children's education, they are often unsure of their role in their children's learning and the best ways to help their children to succeed academically. Moreover, with the changes in how math and literacy are being taught, parents often struggle with helping even first-grade children with their homework. In this book, we set out to alleviate this struggle by offering parents a resource they can use to navigate their child's education, communicate with teachers, and support their children in learning mathematics and literacy. After providing an overview of the current educational climate and tips for communication with teachers we share strategies and suggestions parents can use to assist their children in language arts and mathematics We provide detailed descriptions of activities games books and conversations that connect with what children will be learning at each grade level Long Range Research Paper Great Britain Post Office Telecommunications Headquarters.
