

Summary

13. A number of related organs form an organ system.
14. The digestive system is the system by which ingested food is acted on physically and chemically, providing the body with nutrients it can absorb and excreting waste products.
15. The digestive systems of different organisms vary, depending on their diets.
16. The circulatory system is composed of the heart, arteries, capillaries and veins, and is responsible for moving blood throughout the body.
17. The excretory system removes excess, unnecessary or dangerous materials from an organism, maintaining a balance within the organism that prevents damage to the body.
18. The skeletal system provides structural support and protection using bones, and is supported and supplemented by ligaments, tendons, muscles and cartilage.
19. The respiratory system's function is to allow gas exchange through all parts of the body. This includes the nose, throat, larynx, trachea, bronchi and lungs.
20. Animals that live in water, such as fish, can obtain oxygen from water through gills.
21. Asexual reproduction involves only one parent and produces offspring that are genetically identical to the parent.
22. Sexual reproduction involves the union or fusion of a male and a female gamete.
23. Cloning is the process of producing populations of genetically identical individuals. This occurs in nature when organisms such as bacteria, insects or plants reproduce asexually, or in tissue culturing.
24. Tissue culturing is a process of growing a plant in the laboratory from cells rather than seeds. Growing seeds is a traditional plant-breeding method.
25. Reproductive technologies involve the application of scientific knowledge to assist in making babies, human or animal, or to prevent conception.
26. Organ transplantation is the process of transferring an organ from one body to another, or from a donor site on the patient's own body. This is done to replace the patient's damaged or absent organ.
27. Bioethics is the study of ethical issues raised by research on living beings and the applications of that research.
