We will now be looking at the database portion of Microsoft Office 2000. Access is a DBMS which stands for Database Management System. You can use Access to store and manage large collections of information. As you go through this booklet, follow the instructions very carefully and answer the questions on your master handout.

GETTING STARTED

- Load Microsoft Access (desktools Microsoft Office Access)
- · Select Blank Access database. Click ok.
- Notice the default filename in Access. When you save a file, the file extension accelb will automatically be added to the end of the filename to indicate that it is an Access file.
- Type payroll for filename. Open the folder and find your BTT/Databases folder. Save in here. Click Create.
- This file is the Database file.
- When you open or create a database file, you see the Table window, which is one of the objects you can create in Access. Click on the Create Tab and you will see the objects we can create in Access. There are Tables, Forms, Reports and Queries.
- These Objects will have their own title or name and will be stored in the Database file.
- Answer questions 1 to 3 on your master handout.

THE SETUP OF A DATABASE

To illustrate the following terms, an example using Ontario phone directories will be used.

- A database is a collection of related files.
- A file is a collection of related records.
- A record is a collection of related fields.
- A field is a specific category of information.
- Answer question 4 on your master handout.

- (ie. all telephone directories in Ontario)
- (ic. one of the phone directories)
- (ie. one persons Name, Address, Phone#)
- (ie. all the Names or Phone#'s)

CREATING A TABLE

Tables allow you to enter field names and data. The table will then store this information. You can have one or more tables in a database.

Create a Table by Entering Data

- Your Database should already be open on a new table, if not go to the Create TAB and select Table.
- This is called Datasheet view for the table. Notice that the screen looks a lot like a spreadsheet, but instead of letters there are Field Names for headings.
- If it asks you to save or name the table, type in PayrollTable.
- Before you create a database, you must decide which fields you want to include in each table. Consider what information the database will store and how the information will be used. Check each field to see whether it should be split into additional fields based on how you need to sort, calculate, or find information.
