Protocols for Micropropagation of Woody Trees and Fruits S. Mohan Jain, H. Häggman, 2007-09-18 Micropropagation has become a reliable and routine approach for large scale rapid plant multiplication which is based on plant cell tissue and organ culture on well defined tissue culture media under aseptic conditions A lot of research efforts are being made to develop and refine micropropagation methods and culture media for large scale plant multiplication of several number of plant species However many forest and fruit tree species still remain recalcitrant to in vitro culture and require highly specific culture conditions for plant growth and development The recent challenges on plant cell cycle regulation and the presented potential molecular mechanisms of recalcitrance are providing excellent background for understanding on totipotency and what is more development of micropropagation protocols For large scale in vitro plant production the important attributes are the quality cost effectiveness maintenance of genetic fidelity and long term storage The need for appropriate in vitro plant regeneration methods for woody plants including both forest and fruit trees is still overwhelming in order to overcome problems facing micropropagation such as somaclonal variation recalcitrant rooting hyperhydricity polyphenols loss of material during hardening and quality of plant material Moreover micropropagation may be utilized in basic research in production of virus free planting material cryopreservation of endangered and elite woody species applications in tree breeding and reforestation

Step Wise Protocols for Somatic Embryogenesis of Important Woody Plants Shri Mohan Jain, Pramod Gupta, 2018-05-30 World population is increasing at an alarming rate and this has resulted in increasing tremendously the demand for tree products such as wood for construction materials fuel and paper fruits oils and medicines etc This has put immense pressure on the world s supplies of trees and raw material to industry and will continue to do so as long as human population continues to grow Also the quality of human diet especially nutritional components is adversely affected due to limited genetic improvement of most of fruit trees Thus there is an immediate need to increase productivity of trees Improvement has been made through conventional breeding methods however conventional breeding is very slow due to long life cycle of trees A basic strategy in tree improvement is to capture genetic gain through clonal propagation Clonal propagation via organogenesis is being used for the production of selected elite individual trees However the methods are labour intensive costly and produce low volumes Genetic gain can now be captured through somatic embryogenesis Formation of embryos from somatic cells by a process resembling zygotic embryogenesis is one of the most important features of plants In 1958 Reinert in Germany and Steward in USA independently reported somatic embryogenesis in carrot cultures Since then tremendous progress in somatic embryogenesis of woody and non woody plants has taken place It offers a potentially large scale propagation system for superior clones
