Building a Website: Understanding the Basics of HTML and CSS

1. Introduction to HTML and CSS

Web design involves creating a visual representation of a website using HTML and CSS. HTML (Hypertext Markup Language) is the backbone of a website, while CSS (Cascading Style Sheets) is used to style and format the content.

This document is designed to provide a comprehensive overview of HTML and CSS, covering the basics of each language and how they work together to create a website. It includes examples of code and explanations of the different elements and styles used in web design.

The document is organized into two main sections: HTML and CSS. The HTML section covers the basics of the language, including the structure of a document, the different elements and attributes, and how to use them to create a website. The CSS section covers the basics of the language, including the different styles and selectors, and how to use them to style a website.

2. HTML Basics

HTML is a markup language used to create web pages. It consists of a series of elements and attributes that are used to structure and format the content of a page. The basic structure of an HTML document is as follows:

```
<!DOCTYPE html>
<html>
  <head>
    <meta charset="UTF-8">
    <title>My First Web Page</title>
  </head>
  <body>
    <h1>Hello, World!</h1>
  </body>
</html>
```

The <html> element is the root of the document, and it contains all the other elements. The <head> element is used to define the metadata of the page, such as the character set and the title. The <body> element is used to define the main content of the page. The <h1> element is used to define the main heading of the page.

3. CSS Basics

CSS is a style sheet language used to describe the look and formatting of a document. It is used to control the layout, colors, and fonts of a web page. The basic structure of a CSS document is as follows:

```
body {
  background-color: #f0f0f0;
  color: #333;
  font-family: sans-serif;
  font-size: 1em;
  line-height: 1.2;
  padding: 10px;
}
```

The <body> selector is used to apply styles to the body of the document. The background-color property is used to set the background color of the body. The color property is used to set the color of the text. The font-family property is used to set the font family of the text. The font-size property is used to set the font size of the text. The line-height property is used to set the line height of the text. The padding property is used to set the padding of the body.
