Gender-Inclusive Higher Education in Tanzania Susan P. Murphy, Perpetua John Urrio, 2024-08-02 Whilst there is an extensive body of research exploring the barriers to gender equality and female empowerment in high income states there are far fewer systematic analyses within lower income settings This book draws on extensive empirical data to analyse gender mainstreaming and gender transformative actions in Tanzanian higher education The book maps the practical landscape of gender mainstreaming across 14 universities in Tanzania and the theoretical landscape of African theories of masculinities and femininities underpinning educational institutions and practices It then assesses the Gender Awareness and Transformation through Education project which was designed to support the development of gender expertise and capacities in research and education at one specific institution across both its administrative and academic units Current and future academics at Dar es Salaam University College of Education were trained in gender based research and education and a strategic plan was developed to guide in the establishment of a Gender Research Centre that will provide gender expertise in research and teaching to the College and over time to other HEIs nationally and regionally By bringing together real world insights from action based research the book demonstrates the impact of real time social change and gender transformation with implications both for Tanzania and beyond Bringing novel empirical insights and policy recommendations this book will be of interest to researchers and policy makers across the fields of gender studies education and African studies Serving the Common Good Kiluba L. Nkulu, 2005 Serving the Common Good combines critical analysis and interpretation of theory and practice for higher education in Africa and in the West It demonstrates the current urgent need to articulate an educational ideal relevant to the cultural economic political and social problems of the twenty first century Utilizing Julius K Nyerere s vision of education for the common good a pragmatically balanced articulation of a postcolonial African perspective on higher education Kiluba L Nkulu emphasizes a human centered approach to community and national development Serving the Common Good offers a provocative and unique perspective on the state of higher education in Africa and will be useful in courses on African Studies Education and Society Educational Foundations and Inquiry Higher Education and Leadership Political Economy and Sociology Primary Health Care in Tanzania through a Health Systems Lens Ntuli A. Kapologwe, James Tumaini Kengia, Eric van Praag, Japhet Killewo, Albino Kalolo, 2023-09-08 Robust health care systems are paramount for the health security and prosperity of people and countries as a whole This book provides for the first time a chronicle of the struggle for and eventual success of universal health coverage UHC in Tanzania Beginning with an introduction to primary health care in the country from its historical foundations to the major milestones of implementation this book then considers stewardship of this important aspect of health systems over time Concluding with a look to the future forecasting the changes and new solutions needed to adapt to a changing world this book is a valuable reference for policy makers global health practitioners health system managers researchers students and all those with an interest in primary health care and reforms both in Tanzania and beyond An African Research Ethics Reader , 2024-06-11 Cultural research ethics is in a nascent phase within the field of research ethics as a whole and requires more attention and in depth articulation With specific case studies this vital volume provides unique perspectives on topics such as social autonomy vis a vis interests of individuals This volume assembles needed resources and case studies in cultural research ethics practices providing insight into current developments and future research directions It is a valuable contribution to cultural research ethics given the dearth of published literature available in this emerging field It is designed with two broad audiences in mind 1 African researchers and research organizations that want homegrown guidance about research ethics and 2 research ethicists worldwide who can use it to learn about cultural research ethics especially with respect to Africa

Higher Education in Africa Anne Goujon, Max Haller, Bernadette Müller Kmet, 2017-01-06 The idea that developing all sectors of the educational palette is influential for socio-economic development was adopted later in Sub-Saharan Africa than in other world regions. Most efforts went primarily into developing the first stages of education and rightly so for many children could not access education at all. Today all African governments recognize the importance of higher education and increasingly invest in it. They are facing two major interlinked challenges: rapid population growth and decline in the quality of education. Indeed, despite fertility decline, the region has been confronted with substantial population growth which will continue for many decades; as such, there is a necessity to increase investment in education. This, in a situation of limited resources, has been at the expense of the quality and the burgeoning of private institutions of higher education. The contributions here discuss the development, quality and outcomes of higher education in Africa with a specific focus on relations between Africa and Europe. Issues related to the mobility of African students and scholars are discussed in several national and international case studies. English as a Language of Teaching and Learning for Community Secondary Schools in Tanzania Elia Shabani Mlilo, Mikael Mwashilindi, 2017-08-07 This book examines the challenges posed by English, a foreign language, as a language of teaching and learning for community secondary schools in Tanzania in terms of academic performance. The book probes the necessity for having two languages of instruction in the Tanzanian educational system. While Kiswahili, the native language, is predominantly understood by the majority of people, the discussion in this book indicates that most students in community secondary schools in Tanzania are incompetent in understanding, writing, listening, reading and speaking English, a language they use in learning and doing their examinations, especially in the early stages of their secondary studies. The incompetence in the above-mentioned skills is mostly caused by their inability to cope with the abrupt transition in the languages of instruction from their pre-primary and primary school study in Kiswahili to secondary school study in English. Moreover, most teachers are unable to use the English language as a means to impart knowledge or facilitate learning to their students, leading them to code-switching and code-mixing. This book poses a challenge to countries whose students pass through a transition from one language of instruction to another in their educational systems, helping them to make appropriate decisions in regard to the appropriate language of teaching and learning.
