Patterns in Environmental Quality and Sustainability

Explain the factors affecting access to safe drinking water. (5 marks)

Drinking water, or potable water, is water that is of a standard that can be consumed without any short term or long term health effects, therefore not containing any harmful concentrations of chemicals or microorganisms. The World Health Organization estimates that 4 million deaths each year are attributed to water related diseases including cholera, hepatitis, malaria, and other parasitic diseases, via which contaminated water sources are the impetus.

Foremost are the physical factors affecting access to safe drinking water. Various regions including sub-Saharan Africa and Iquitos for instance have low levels of precipitation, or conversely, seasonal distributions of precipitation, thus limiting their access to safe drinking water. Areas of which find this an issue often don't have the infrastructure to physically store the water when it does fall, and so people must rely on alternative sources of water such as nearby rivers contaminated by faeces. However, when there is no alternative, drinking this water is what results in diseases such as cholera. This is typical of LEDCs as demonstrated in Jakarta, whereby only 3% of the 1.3 million cubic metres of water consumed annually reaches sewage treatment plants, as opposed to the 100% in Australia.

There are also various human factors which impact access to safe drinking water. The wealth of nation or region in terms of its ability to construct and maintain water infrastructure is paramount. Ethiopia, despite high precipitation, only 42% of the most populous country in Africa have access to improved water sources, and 20% in rural areas as there is insufficient infrastructure to capture and store the water. Additionally, LEDCs pay more for their water than EDCs, therefore discriminating against populations that cannot economically afford to purchase safe drinking water. This is demonstrated in Port-au-Prince, Haiti, where households connected to the water system pay $1 per cubic metre, however unconnected customers are forced to purchase from mobile vendors at a price between $5.50-$16.50 per cubic metre. As previously mentioned, contamination of urban water supplies is of high concern, both by industry and the people in general. Sewage, fertilizers and pesticides from farming can affect quality, as can heavy metals and acids from industrial processes and transport. In China, a third of their Yellow River cannot be used due to contamination by industrial waste (4.3 billion tonnes). This is constant throughout the country with 20% of their rivers not considered safe for water consumption. Additionally, sanitation is not able to keep up with population growth – between 1990 and 2000 the number of people without sanitation rose from 2.6 billion to 3.3 billion. Asia currently has the least access to sanitation (48%). When sanitation is present, rivers are often open sewers, which are then consumed.
