Recent insights into perceptual and motor skill learning (The computational and neural processes underlying perceptual and motor skill learning)

Lior Shmuelof, John W Krakauer, 2015-03-18 Improvements in task performance following practice can occur as a result of changes in distinct cognitive and neural processes In some cases we can improve our performance by selecting a more successful behavior that is already part of our available repertoire Skill learning on the other hand refers to a slower process that results in improving the ability to perform a behavior i e it involves the acquisition of a behavior that was not available to the controller before training Skill learning can take place both in the sensory and in the motor domains Sensory skill acquisition in perceptual learning tasks is measured by improvements in sensory acuity through practice induced changes in the sensitivity of relevant neural networks Motor skill is harder to define as the term is used whenever a motor learning behavior improves along some dimension Nevertheless we have recently argued that as in perceptual learning acuity is an integral component in motor skill learning In this special topic we set out to integrate experimental and theoretical work on perceptual and motor skill learning and to stimulate a discussion regarding the similarities and differences between these two kinds of learning New Insights in the Health Benefits of Art Olivier Beauchet, Auriane Gros, Andy Hau Yan Ho, Ian

Koebner, 2024-06-11 In 2019 the World Health Organization demonstrated with a scoping review that art based activities regardless of their characteristics have promising health benefits More specifically practicing art based activities was demonstrated to contribute to core determinants of health to play a key role in health promotion and prevention especially with regard to the onset of mental illness and age related physical decline and to assist in acute and end of life care This report also underscored first a lack of robust data on art s health benefits meaning data obtained with gold standard experimental study designs i e randomized control trials and second that certain topics e g social health and populations e g older community dwellers have been underexamined In addition little is known about both the mechanisms of art s health benefits and how to implement an art based activity for health purposes in practice Unveiling the Potential of
