In the act, the conspirators, including Brutus and Cassius, decide to assassinate Caesar. They plan to do this on the Ides of March, which is the 15th of March. The conspirators are led by Brutus, who is a close friend of Caesar. They are joined by other men who are also dissatisfied with Caesar's growing power. The conspirators believe that Caesar's ambition is a threat to the Roman Republic. They believe that they are doing a noble deed by killing him. However, their actions will have far-reaching consequences for Rome.

ACT 3

After the speech, Brutus is killed by the soldiers of Mark Antony. This is the end of the play. The soldiers of Mark Antony are led by Octavius, who is Caesar's nephew. Octavius is a young man who is very intelligent and ambitious. He is determined to avenge his uncle's death. He is also a skilled leader and a good strategist. He is the one who will ultimately win the war and become the ruler of Rome.

ACT 5

Returning to the content of Act 5, particularly the battle of Philippi, the conspirators realize the following situation: to win great battles, after winning, the victors should have a good plan for the future. The conspirators are not prepared for this. They are not thinking about the future of Rome. They are only thinking about their own personal interests. This is why they are ultimately defeated. They are not good leaders. They are not good strategists. They are not good warriors. They are only a group of men who are driven by their own ambition and greed.
