In the Shadow of Boone and Crockett Ian C. Hartman, 2024-01-12 Well researched and well argued provocative and imaginative In the Shadow of Boone and Crockett examines the image of the pure Appalachian Anglo Saxons who furnished hope for the future and the less flattering image of the degenerate poverty stricken mountaineers with blood on their hands In a wide ranging exploration that reaches from Teddy Roosevelt to JFK Ian C Hartman examines the idea of Appalachian exceptionalism over time and what that has meant for the region and for America James C Klotter state historian of Kentucky and professor of history Georgetown College Extending from the southern Appalachians through the rolling hills of Kentucky and Tennessee to the Ozarks of Arkansas and Missouri the upland South emerged in American lore as the setting where Daniel Boone David Crockett and other rugged frontiersmen forged a modern nation and headed west to become the progenitors of what some viewed as a new and superior American race Others however saw this region as the breeding ground of poor debased whites the hillbillies and white trash of popular stereotypes These conflicting identities have long dominated public discourse about the region as well as fostered a deep fascination with it In this compelling study part political and part cultural history Ian C Hartman probes the late nineteenth century context from which this paradox arose and the array of personalities expressions and policies that sought to resolve it or at least make sense of it in the decades that followed He begins by investigating the writings of race theorists including future president Theodore Roosevelt whose multivolume The Winning of the West 1889-96 furthered the tale of a heroic and distinctly American stock who with axe and rifle conquered a continent Hartman relates these myths to the rise of the early twentieth century eugenics movement which sought to regenerate and purify a once proud but now impoverished and degraded people through policies that included forced sterilization to weed out imbeciles Hartman goes on to showcase the surprising ways in which the contradictory identity of the upland South affected broader national debates about imperialism crime and punishment poverty and inequality and the growth and decline of the postwar welfare state Whether considering the racial implications of a 1930s Appalachian folk festival the stereotypical but often sympathetic portrayals of rural southerners in sitcoms like The Beverly Hillbillies and The Andy Griffith Show or the shifting perceptions of President Lyndon B Johnson's War on Poverty In the Shadow of Boone and Crockett is a consistently provocative book that invites readers to ponder a fresh set of ideas about America's race history that have shown remarkable traction for more than a century Ian C Hartman is an assistant professor of history at the University of Alaska Anchorage His articles and reviews have appeared in the Journal of Southern History Cultural Studies Critical Methodologies Appalachian Journal and Multicultural America A Multimedia Encyclopedia among other publications

Engel, Kenneth E. Brown, Lloyd M. Dunn, Annie Daugherty, 1955 Stop the Rot Garth Pettit, 2008-12-01 For more than five centuries children have been told to brush their teeth In this book Pettit argues that brushing does not leave the whole mouth clean he says it actually makes teeth vulnerable and does not prevent oral diseases A Mind at a Time Mel Levine, 2002-04-04 Different minds learn differently writes Dr Mel Levine one of the best known education experts and pediatricians in America today And that's a problem for many children because most schools still cling to a one size fits all education philosophy As a result these children struggle because their learning patterns don't fit the schools they are in In A Mind at a Time Dr Levine shows parents and others who care for children how to identify these individual learning patterns He explains how parents and teachers can encourage a child's strengths and bypass the child's weaknesses This type of teaching produces satisfaction and achievement instead of frustration and failure Different brains are differently wired Dr Levine explains There are eight fundamental systems or components of learning that draw on a variety of neurodevelopmental capacities Some students are strong in certain areas and some are strong in others but no one is equally capable in all eight Using examples drawn from his own extensive experience Dr Levine shows how parents and children can identify their strengths and weaknesses to determine their individual learning styles For example some students are creative and write imaginatively but do poorly in history because weak memory skills prevent them from retaining facts Some students are weak in sequential ordering and can't follow directions They may test poorly and often don't do well in mathematics In these cases Dr Levine observes the problem is not a lack of intelligence but a learning style that doesn't fit the assignment Drawing on his pioneering research and his work with thousands of students Dr Levine shows how parents and teachers can develop effective strategies to work through or around these weaknesses It's taken for granted in adult society that we cannot all be generalists skilled in every area of learning and mastery Nevertheless we apply tremendous pressure to our children to be good at everything They are expected to shine in math reading writing speaking spelling memorization comprehension problem solving and none of us adults can do all this observes Dr Levine Learning begins in school but it doesn't end there Frustrating a child's desire to learn will have lifelong repercussions This frustration can be avoided if we understand that not every child can do equally well in every type of learning We must begin to pay more attention to individual learning styles to individual minds urges Dr Levine so that we can maximize children's learning potential In A Mind at a Time he shows us how
