Maths And African Masks:

Constitution and Production of Mathematics in the Cyberspace Maria Aparecida Viggiani Bicudo, 2020-04-29 This book brings together various studies that assume phenomenology to analyze how mathematics education is affected by the experience of being in the cyberspace The authors of the chapters included in this contributed volume work with the theoretical framework developed by authors such as Edmund Husserl Martin Heidegger and Maurice Merleau Ponty to investigate how mathematics is produced and comprehended in a new way of being in the world with digital technologies The aim of this book is not to explain the tools used and how one works with them in the cyberspace aiming at better teaching and learning mathematics Its purpose is to present philosophical investigations that contribute to the understanding of the complexity of the world in which we are being researchers and mathematics teachers By doing so Constitution and Production of Mathematics in the Cyberspace A Phenomenological Approach will help researchers and mathematics teachers understand their role in a world in which the experience of teaching and learning mathematics is being radically changed by new technologies and new ways of being in this world

Researching the Socio-Political Dimensions of Mathematics Education Paola Valero, Robyn Zevenbergen, 2004-08-25 Mathematics education research as a discipline is situated at the confluence of an array of diffuse seemingly incommensurable and radically divergent discourses Research claims that have grown out of mathematics education are wide ranging and antagonistic rather than circumscribed by hidebound disciplinary frames While there has never been a unified totalising discipline of knowledge labelled mathematics education research and while it has always been a contested terrain it is fair to say that the master paradigm out of which this field has been generated has been that of cognitive psychology Mainstream mathematics education knowledges refracting the master discourse of psychology whereby cognition serves as the central privileged and defining concept clearly delimits its possibilities for serving as a social tool of democratic transformation The central point of departure of this new collection is that mathematics education research is insufficiently univocal to support the type of uncompromising interpretation that cognitive psychologists would bring to it The hallmark contribution of this pathbreaking volume edited by Paola Valero and Robyn Zevenbergen is the paradigmatic shift the authors have effected in the field of mathematics education research taking up a position at the faultline of socio cultural analysis and critical pedagogy

Critical Issues in Mathematics Education Bharath Sriraman, Paul Ernest, Brian Greer, 2009-06-01 The word critical in the title of this collection has three meanings all of which are relevant One meaning as applied to a situation or problem is at a point of crisis A second meaning is expressing adverse or disapproving comments or judgments A third is related to the verb to critique meaning to analyze the merits and faults of The authors contributing to this book pose challenging questions from multiple perspectives about the roles of mathematics in society and the implications for education Traditional reasons for teaching mathematics include preparing a new generation of mathematics researchers and a cadre of technically competent users of mathematics training students to think logically and because mathematics is as much part of cultural heritage as literature or music These reasons remain valid though open to critique but a deeper analysis is required that recognizes the roles of mathematics in framing many aspects of contemporary society that will connect mathematics education to the lived experiences of students their communities and society in general and that acknowledges the global ethical responsibilities of mathematicians and mathematics educators The book is organized in four sections 1 Mathematics education For what and why 2 Globalization and cultural diversity 3 Mathematics education and society and 4 Social justice in and through mathematics education The chapters address fundamental issues such as the relevance of school mathematics in people's lives creating a sense of agency for the field of mathematics education and redefining the relationship between mathematics as discipline mathematics as school subject and mathematics as part of people's lives
