Parliament,1926 Making the Grades Todd Farley,2011-01-01 In this alternately amusing and appalling expos of the standardized test industry fifteen year veteran Todd Farley describes statisticians who make decisions about students without even looking at their test answers state education officials willing to change the way tests are scored whenever they don't like the results and massive multinational for-profit testing companies who regularly opt for expediency and profit over the altruistic educational goals of teaching and learning. Although there are absurd moments as when Farley and coworkers had to grade students based on how they described the taste of their favorite food, the enormous importance of standardized tests in the post No Child Left Behind era makes this no laughing matter. This book is dynamite. The nice personal voice makes it utterly accessible and enticing, wholly apart from the terribly important ammunition it provides to those of us in the testing wars at national and local levels. Practice with Purpose Debbie Diller, 2005. In her 30 years as an educator, Debbie Diller has closely examined classroom practice, asking, "Why? What's the purpose?" Watching primary students work successfully at literacy work stations, she wondered with teachers, "Why don't we have upper-grade students doing this? Could we kick it up a notch?" In her new book, Debbie shows teachers of grades three to six how to structure their classrooms so that all students can be successful doing meaningful independent work using literacy work stations. Practice with Purpose offers guidance on establishing routines for independent reading and response writing as well as step-by-step instructions on how to set up and manage a variety of hands-on literacy work stations appropriate for intermediate students. Each chapter includes how to introduce the station, innovative ways to use materials, what to model to guarantee independence, how to troubleshoot assessment and accountability ideas, how the station supports student
