The California Campaigns of the U.S.-Mexican War, 1846-1848 Hunt Janin, Ursula Carlson, 2015-10-14 For the Mexican government to go to war with its more powerful northern neighbor in 1846 was folly Mexico surrendered to the United States more than half a million square miles of territory contributing to a legacy of distrust and bitterness towards the U S that has never entirely dissipated The real prize was California The Californios Spanish speaking non native inhabitants of the province of Alta Upper California had ambiguous loyalties to the Mexican government and minimal military capabilities American control of California was considered the keystone of Manifest Destiny and naval and amphibious operations along the Pacific coast began as early as 1821 and continued for weeks after the end of the war This book describes the often overlooked military and naval operations in California before and during the Mexican War and introduces readers to the colorful Californios the American adventurers who arrived after them and the Indians who preceded them both

The Experiences of Ghanaian Live-in Caregivers in the United States Martha Donkor, 2017-11-15 Using the convergence of the impact of globalization and political turmoil in Ghana on Ghanaian women as a backdrop this book examines the migration of the women to the US and their decisions to care for upper middle class white seniors who elected to stay in their homes to be cared for by private caregivers The book explores the attraction of domestic care work the women s perceptions of their job their relationships with their clients and the dynamics of their relationships with their immediate families and families left behind in Ghana It also analyzes the women s interactions with the immigrant community from their remote work sites The book examines widely held beliefs about domestic work as undervalued under remunerated and relegated to marginalized immigrant women of color While admitting that these problems exist the women whose stories are told in the book did not believe that their brand of care work which they called private practice was undervalued or underpaid They also did not think that racism played a role in the concentration of immigrant women of color in domestic care work as widely believed although again the women admitted that there was racism in American society By doing so the women symbolically placed themselves beyond the institutional barriers that constrain the lives of women of color in American society And while it addresses common themes like exploitation abuse restriction of movement etc that other studies of immigrant live in caregiving address this book stands out in two major ways First is its truly transnational character It links the women s background in Ghana to their immigration history and how these two influenced their choice as well as perceptions of care work and then loops their experience of care work back to expectations in Ghana Second the book validates the women s voices as a product of their cultural background thus making the case that the women s choices and experiences were informed by conditions in the US and the cultural baggage the women brought with them The book argues that private care work satisfied women s financial expectations and with that leverage in their families
