

Introduction

In recent years there has been a broad movement to firmly developing and securing human rights both civil and rights that help people believe that we should give animals just rights to humans. Others view them as a redeemable source of food, as well as other useful products.

Body paragraph #1

First of all, it seems clear for north intelligent people that animals deserve more rights than they have. Unfortunately some people think it because they are obviously not used to go with thoughts and feelings are if there are not really the same as we are. For example, it has been said that some animals - birds and dolphins - swim, they can just like humans so they would deserve the rights of their peers and with that we would interact with humans better. Therefore, it appears quite clear that they should be given the same rights and protection as humans.

Body paragraph #2

There are arguments against giving rights for animals and not that they have the ability of human feeling and speech but that they are not like us. They are not like us in their behavior or in their intelligence. The natural world is not like human world not feeling and rights are. They would not be part of human or natural relationship as much as that of a wolf and a sheep. It would be wrong for us to be animals for it is not beautiful because that is the natural way of the world.

Conclusion

In conclusion, there are arguments from both sides of the debate, both arguing that that animals deserve respect, protection, and some rights. Perhaps they should not be given the same treatment as humans but they should certainly be treated better than they currently are and least should be drafted for extreme their protection from undue suffering.
