1) Present Level of Performance:

- a. Student loves to talk about his hobbies and activities when he is prompted. However, when the conversation is "boring," he will provide close-ended statements "yes," "no," "I do not know," and will not follow up with a statement unless he is prompted. He also speeds through his assignments as he "wants to get them over with." He needs to continue to work on taking his time through assignments while also paying attention in class.

2) Current Annual Goal:

- a. In one year, the student will be able to identify and discuss the consequences of rushing through school assignments. At the same time, he should also explore coping strategies he might experience when he becomes frustrated or overwhelmed in class. He will utilize learned strategies and coping skills to increase productivity, insight, and achievement in this period.

3) Progress in meeting goals:

- a. He struggles with pacing himself throughout the examinations, and currently, he is not sure if he does not understand the material or is rushing because of disinterest. When asked about this, he answers with closed-ended statements. He also lacks interest in school and is easily distracted by activities on his computer (google chat etc.)

4) Recommended including frequency

- a. Student will continue to benefit from one-to-one counseling 1x week for 30 minutes

5) New Annual goals

- a. Student will continue to focus on becoming aware of the reason for his disinterest in school. Achievement of this goal will be demonstrated by the student freely discussing his motivation/disinterest in sessions in three out of four consecutive weeks.
- b. With awareness of the consequences of rapidly completing an examination (Low grades), student will utilize taught strategies to slow down while taking exams, and his grades will improve. This will be demonstrated with weekly self-reports grades by student during counseling sessions and improved exam grades (exam grades will improve by an average of 5% per semester)
- c. Student will utilize taught coping skills to increase his frustration tolerance in the classroom. This will be demonstrated by student self-reports and classroom

How To Write A Counselling Report:

Standards and Ethics for Counselling in Action Tim Bond, 2000-06-22 SAGE celebrated the 20th Anniversary of the Counselling in Action in November 2008 To view the video click here This book is very comprehensive and a useful addition to the reading list for healthcare students Excellent student text Invaluable text This edition retains the same informative and accessible style and broadly the same order of contents as the First Edition which makes it easy for readers to track down key changes The author's extensive experience in the field of ethics in counselling and his experience as Chair of BACP underpin this updated essential and authoritative Second Edition British Journal of Guidance and Counselling Tim Bond has done a great service to the counselling profession by writing and now updating this book His particular strength must surely be his clarity in acquainting counsellors with the complexities of British law After an introduction he starts with an exploration of the origins and scope of counselling He then exemplifies cases in which a counsellor's personal and professional values collide He has collected together a host of ethical dilemmas that counsellors might have to face Naomi Stadlen Journal of the Society for Existential Analysis This highly acclaimed guide to the major responsibilities which trainees and counsellors in practice must be aware of before working with clients has now been fully revised and updated The Second Edition examines issues fundamental to the process of counselling A wide range of ethical problems are discussed and advice is given for resolving these dilemmas Tim Bond outlines the values and ethical principles inherent in counselling and points out that the counsellor is at the centre of a series of responsibilities to the client to him/herself as a counsellor and to the wider community He covers topics such as confidentiality legal aspects of counselling working with suicidal clients false or recovered memory record keeping and the importance of adequate supervision

Reporting in Counselling and Psychotherapy Linda Papadopoulos, Malcolm C. Cross, Robert Bor, 2024-12-30 Showing practical competence through the production of client reports and case studies is a key aspect of training therapists and other mental health professionals This Classic Edition of Reporting in Counselling and Psychotherapy offers a unique hands on guide to this element of practical work Using clinical examples to guide the reader and a detailed analysis of case study and process report writing it shows readers how to present clear concise and properly presented reports This book remains an invaluable tool not only for those embarking on practical training in psychotherapy counselling and psychology but also for trainers in these areas and for clinicians writing clinical reports or case presentations

Learning and Writing in Counselling Mhairi MacMillan, Dot Clark, 1998-02-04 This is a very practical how to book written for students on counselling skills courses It is intended to help them through the various problems faced by people returning to education perhaps after a long gap how useful this book could be to students who are confused by the increasingly academic requirements of counselling training courses I would recommend this book as a companion for anyone who is starting a course with little or no experience of academic expectations It is written in a friendly and reassuring style

Counselling The Journal of the British Association for Counselling

This book provides a comprehensive overview of the tasks and the processes of learning and writing required on counselling training courses and in the practice of counselling. The authors cover the entire period of training from choosing a course to the early stages of professional practice. The first part of the book discusses learning skills, methods and approaches, looking at, for example, the context for learning, motivation and experiential learning. Part Two focuses on course requirements, the form of written assignments, how to complete them and the difficulties that can be encountered, as well as the basics of writing, including language form and style. The final part looks at the involvement of practising counsellors in continued learning and the kinds of writing that they may develop throughout their careers.

Counselling Supervision in Organisations Sue Copeland, 2005. This book brings together the cultures of counselling and supervision and their relation to organisational cultures, providing a unique understanding of the employment processes for counselling supervisors working within organisations.

Personal Counseling Skills Kathryn Geldard, David Geldard, 2008. This book is a comprehensive, easy-to-read introduction to personal counseling, written for professional and volunteer counselors and those who train them. The chapters describing basic and more advanced counseling skills are arranged in a sequence that is particularly suitable when teaching student counselors to learn and practice using these skills for the first time. The authors adopt an integrative approach that allows the reader to learn, understand and use skills taken from major counseling approaches and to integrate these into a sequential process that maximizes the possibility of facilitating change in the client. Of considerable value for new counselors are those sections of the book that describe the fundamental principles of the counseling relationship and explain the theories of change applicable to the various approaches to counseling. Unique features include a highly practical integrative approach to counseling, discussion of the specific skills required for success, practical suggestions on ways to learn and develop new skills, ways of managing particular situations involving angry, depressed, grieving and suicidal clients, an understanding of the role of a counselor, OCOs, supervisor information on practical issues such as keeping records, arrangement of the counseling room and ways to look after yourself as a counselor, plus practical information on issues of confidentiality and professional ethics. Additionally, there are numerous examples of useful dialogue to illustrate real experiences of and for use in counseling situations, including key statements that are highlighted throughout the book for ease of reference. This text will serve as a valuable resource for workers in a wide variety of helping professions where counseling skills are useful, such as psychology, social work, welfare work, medicine, nursing, education and human services.
