Robert Bergman

Gauteng Physical Science Paper November 2007:

The State of African Cities 2008, 2008 With rapidly increasing urban populations cities in Africa are faced with enormous challenges and will have to find ways to facilitate by 2015 urban services livelihoods and housing for more than twice as many urban dwellers than it has today A worrying trend with the African urbanization process is that it is a process rooted in poverty rather than an industrialization induced socio economic transition as in other major world urban regions Africas escalating urban problems have received less attention than warranted and now at the dawn of Africas urban age these need to be addressed publisher Drum, 2007 Reducing Fuel Consumption and Greenhouse Gas Emissions of Medium- and Heavy-Duty Vehicles, Phase Two National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Transportation Research Board, Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences, Board on Energy and Environmental Systems, Committee on Assessment of Technologies and Approaches for Reducing the Fuel Consumption of Medium- and Heavy-Duty Vehicles, Phase Two, 2020-05-15 Medium and heavy duty trucks motor coaches and transit buses collectively medium and heavy duty vehicles or MHDVs are used in every sector of the economy The fuel consumption and greenhouse gas emissions of MHDVs have become a focus of legislative and regulatory action in the past few years This study is a follow on to the National Research Council's 2010 report Technologies and Approaches to Reducing the Fuel Consumption of Medium and Heavy Duty Vehicles That report provided a series of findings and recommendations on the development of regulations for reducing fuel consumption of MHDVs On September 15 2011 NHTSA and EPA finalized joint Phase I rules to establish a comprehensive Heavy Duty National Program to reduce greenhouse gas emissions and fuel consumption for on road medium and heavy duty vehicles As NHTSA and EPA began working on a second round of standards the National Academies issued another report Reducing the Fuel Consumption and Greenhouse Gas Emissions of Medium and Heavy Duty Vehicles Phase Two First Report providing recommendations for the Phase II standards This third and final report focuses on a possible third phase of regulations to be promulgated by these agencies in the next decade

The Formation of Intellectual Capital and Its Ability to Transform Higher Education Institutions and the Knowledge Society Cardoso Espinosa, Edgar Oliver, 2019-06-28 The knowledge society arises from the combination of four interdependent elements the production of knowledge through research its transmission through education its dissemination through information and communication technologies and its exploitation through innovation For this reason higher education institutions HEIs are the main component of the formation of intellectual capital because they are the key element of the knowledge society so it is necessary that they continue to be the main source of the necessary skills that allow the increase of economic competitiveness sustainability and citizen welfare within the framework of quality education and equity The Formation of Intellectual Capital and Its Ability to Transform Higher Education Institutions and the Knowledge Society is an essential research publication that provides systemic research on the formation of intellectual capital in higher education and its impact on the knowledge society Highlighting topics such as educational programs management strategy and educational studies this book is meant for educators educational technologists students researchers professionals and administrators

Limits to Climate Change Adaptation Walter Leal Filho, Johanna Nalau, 2017-11-15 This book sheds new light on the limits of adaptation to anthropogenic climate change The respective chapters demonstrate the variety of and interconnections between factors that together constitute the constraints on adaptation The book pays special attention to evidence that illustrates how and where such limits have become apparent or are in the process of establishing themselves and which indicates future trends and contexts that might prove helpful in understanding adaptation limits In particular the book provides an overview of the most important challenges and opportunities regarding adaptation limits at different temporal jurisdictional and spatial scales while also highlighting case studies projects and best practices that show how they may be addressed The book presents innovative multi disciplinary research and gathers evidence from various countries sectors and regions the goal being to advance our understanding of the limits to adaptation and ways to overcome or modify them

Thermal Energy Yatish T. Shah, 2018-01-12 The book details sources of thermal energy methods of capture and applications It describes the basics of thermal energy including measuring thermal energy laws of thermodynamics that govern its use and transformation modes of thermal energy conventional processes devices and materials and the methods by which it is transferred It covers 8 sources of thermal energy combustion fusion solar fission nuclear geothermal microwave plasma waste heat and thermal energy storage In each case the methods of production and capture and its uses are described in detail It also discusses novel processes and devices used to improve transfer and transformation processes

Engineering Design and Mathematical Modelling Nnamdi Nwulu, Mammo Muchie, 2020-12-17 Engineering Design and Mathematical Modelling Concepts and Applications consists of chapters that span the Engineering design and mathematical modelling domains Engineering design and mathematical modelling are key tools techniques in the Science Technology and Innovation spheres Whilst engineering design is concerned with the creation of functional innovative products and processes mathematical modelling seeks to utilize mathematical principles and concepts to describe and control real world phenomena Both of these can be useful tools for spurring and hastening progress in developing countries They are also areas where Africa needs to skill up in order to build a technological base The chapters in this book cover the relevant research trends in the fields of both engineering design and mathematical modelling This book was originally published as a special issue of the African Journal of Science Technology Innovation and Development

Towards more effective collaboration by higher education institutions for greater regional development in the Gauteng City-Region Robert Bergman, 2014-11-19 Higher education institutions HEIs in the Gauteng City Region GCR and elsewhere are increasingly being called upon to do more than their traditional roles of teaching and research They are now expected to collaborate and engage with other stakeholders with a view to contributing directly and indirectly to social and economic development in their localities. Such an orientation includes having HEIs actively fostering public private partnerships and other initiatives that enhance equitable regional development. The adoption of such a focus has implications for all aspects of these institutions' activities as well as for the policy and regulatory framework in which they operate. This Occasional Paper reflects critically on the role of HEIs in regional development. It surveys current debates on the matter and draws out some of the implications on how we ought to think further about the current state of government industry/academia interaction and collaboration for development in the GCR. It is motivated by an awareness of the increasing importance of higher education in the regional development discourse alongside a body of international theory and practice on the contribution of HEIs to regional development. A cornerstone of this body of literature is the so called triple helix framework within which government, industry and academia work intimately, intensely and collaboratively towards a common vision of regional development. Within this framework HEIs are considered to be a public good that must play a large, meaningful and relevant role in the development and improvement of the cities and regions where they are located.^{1, 2} They do not and cannot stand completely outside the realities of their geographic, social, cultural and political environment. The intended audience for this report extends beyond academics and HEI administrators to include government officials, business and labour leaders, civil society and citizens because a discussion on stimulating and improving the GCR must be much more than an academic exercise. The collaboration that is essential to regional development requires stakeholders to be familiar with a wide spectrum of issues of importance to individual constituencies. Each constituency must add value and insight to the discussion by drawing on their specific knowledge, experience and self interests. Establishing this common ground is fundamental to initiating meaningful debate about what the GCR can and should be and how regional HEIs can work more collaboratively, creatively and effectively to improve and advance the region. International Handbook of Universities, 2010
