Multilingual classroom contexts Christa van der Walt,Verbra Pfeiffer,2021-12-01 By far the majority of South African students get their schooling in a second language which means that our classrooms are multilingual This state of affairs is not exclusive to our country as can be seen in the many academic conferences on multilingual learning and teaching Terms like translanguaging and biliteracy appear in many articles and books that discuss the role language in education What makes the multilingual nature of our South African classrooms challenging is the fact that many learners switch from one language of learning and teaching to another at various points in their school career from home language to English or Afrikaans after the foundation phase from one language of learning and teaching to another when they move to new schools high school or tertiary institutions This book is an attempt to highlight the transitions from home to school from foundation to intermediate phase from primary to high school and from high school to tertiary institutions Tone Orthography and

Literacy David Roberts, Stephen L. Walter, 2021-07-15 This book presents the results of a series of literacy experiments in ten Niger Congo languages representing four language families and spanning five countries It asks the research question To what extent does full tone marking contribute to oral reading fluency comprehension and writing accuracy and does that contribution vary from language to language One of the main findings is that the ethno literacy profile of the language community and the social profile of the individual are stronger predictors of reading and writing performance than are the linguistic and orthographic profiles of the language Our data also suggest that full tone marking may be more beneficial for less educated readers and those with less experience of L1 literacy The book will bring practical help to linguists and literacy specialists in Africa and beyond who are helping to develop orthographies for tone languages It will also be of interest to cognitive psychologists exploring the reading process and researchers investigating writing systems English-Zulu, Zulu-English Dictionary Clement Martyn Doke, 1990 This is the original and first Zulu English dictionary to be developed in South Africa The originators of the dictionary were all leading academics and writers The development of the Zulu English dictionary was begun in the 1940s by Wits University lecturers C M Doke and B W Vilakazi Vilakazi who died in 1947 was the first published Zulu poet and his collection Amal eZulu is listed in the Top 100 African Books of the 20th century The English Zulu dictionary was published in 1958 by Doke Malcolm and Sikakana The first combined edition of the two dictionaries in the present format was published in 1990 The English Zulu Zulu English Dictionary is still the definitive dictionary in these languages Various revisions have been undertaken over the years to bring the orthography up to date A new preface written by Professor J Khumalo was added in 1990 and provides an update to the phonological tone markings originally indicated by Vilakazi
