Army Diplomacy Walter M. Hudson,2015-05-19 In the immediate aftermath of World War II the United States Army became the principal agent of American foreign policy The army designed implemented and administered the occupations of the defeated Axis powers Germany and Japan as well as many other nations Generals such as Lucius Clay in Germany

Douglas MacArthur in Japan Mark Clark in Austria and John Hodge in Korea presided over these territories as proconsuls At the beginning of the Cold War more than 300 million people lived under some form of U S military authority The army s influence on nation building at the time was profound but most scholarship on foreign policy during this period concentrates on diplomacy at the highest levels of civilian government rather than the armed forces governance at the local level In Army Diplomacy Hudson explains how U S Army policies in the occupied nations represented the culmination of more than a century of military doctrine Focusing on Germany Austria and Korea Hudson s analysis reveals that while the post World War II American occupations are often remembered as overwhelming successes the actual results were mixed His study draws on military sociology and institutional analysis as well as international relations theory to demonstrate how bottom up decisions not only inform but also create higher level policy As the debate over post conflict occupations continues this fascinating work offers a valuable perspective on an important yet underexplored facet of Cold War history
