A Guide to Argumentative Research Writing and Thinking Arnold Wentzel, 2017-11-09 Research is difficult Even though students are trained in the basic research methodology skills when confronted with research writing it feels to them as if they enter a bizarre world with its own language and conventions where it is hard to get things right This book translates the apparent complexities of research writing into everyday ideas language and skills and will enable novice researchers to start overcoming the major stumbling blocks immediately This book focuses only on the greatest challenges in research writing specifically those that supervisors find most difficult to explain to novice researchers These challenges include both basic and more complex skills such as finding original research contributions establishing one's voice while drawing on other authors turning a vague idea into a feasible research question generating literature reviews that are original in themselves and avoiding list like writing when discussing the research methodology Wentzel shows that it is easier to overcome these challenges not with lists of prescriptions that are difficult to remember while writing but rather by cultivating an argumentative mindset Not only is such a mindset much easier to maintain but it offers a central point around which one can organise any difficult writing task The book shows how to use the argumentative mindset to approach every important writing challenge It translates all the necessary skills into jargon free language using a variety of visuals and simple step by step procedures that will enable any person to read the book quickly and start writing immediately The book is accompanied by a website containing an instructor's manual with guidance on the teaching and assessment of research writing as well as lecture slides

Climate Consciousness and Environmental Activism in Composition Joseph R. Lease, 2020-02-18 Now more than ever in a time when Americans still do not believe that humans are the primary cause of Earth's climate change crisis the burden on educators to inform challenge and motivate students about sustainability is greater than it ever has been On college campuses writing intensive courses often located within First Year or General Education curricula are an ideal place to take up this charge because of the flexibility of their content and the high volume of students that they reach. In this volume a varied group of composition instructors with wide ranges and types of experiences provides best practices for bringing issues surrounding climate change into the writing classroom. From literature based composition and creative writing courses to design thinking workshops to seminars against sustainability the authors in this volume lay out a multitude of possibilities for blending writing and environmental concerns that fellow practitioners can easily adopt or modify for their own use.

Writing and Motivation Suzanne Hidi, Pietro Boscolo, 2006-11-01 The aim of this volume is to bring together contributions from international research on writing and motivation. It not only addresses the basic question of how motivation to write can be fostered but also provides analyses of conceptual and theoretical issues at the intersection of the topics of motivation and writing. What emerges from the various chapters is that the motivational aspects of writing represent a rich productive and partially still unexplored research field. This volume is a step in the direction of a more systematic analysis of the problems as well as an effort to present and compare various models, perspectives and methods of motivation and writing. It addresses the implications of writing instruction based on the 2 main approaches to writing research: cognitive and socio-cultural. It provides systematic analysis of the various models, perspectives and methods of motivation and writing. It brings together the international research available in this burgeoning field.

Generative AI in the English Composition Classroom Daniel Plate, Elizabeth Melick, James Hutson, Susan Edele, 2024-09-18 Designed to cater to the needs of both novice and seasoned writing instructors, this book provides a range of practical and adaptable strategies for integrating generative artificial intelligence (AI) into English writing curricula. Generative AI in the English Composition Classroom proposes strategic methodologies to ensure that AI is utilized as a facilitator of learning and creativity rather than as a shortcut to academic success. With a particular emphasis on sophisticated large language models such as Claude ChatGPT and Gemini, this book critically addresses potential challenges including concerns related to academic integrity. It includes case studies and practical strategies to exemplify how AI can enhance the writing process while emphasizing the continuing importance of a solid foundation in writing structure, processes and rhetorical strategies. These case studies and strategies are designed for immediate application, offering educators and students practical tools to effectively navigate AI augmented writing environments. Finally, the book looks to the future, discussing the evolving skillsets required in the workforce and how educators can equip students for a future in which AI is an integral component. A forward thinking and invaluable guide, this book will be of interest to educators involved in teaching English Composition and writing.
