- Conducting a Search:
 The search process is a series of steps that are designed to help you find the information you need. The steps are:
1. Identify the problem or question. What do you need to know? What are you trying to solve?
 2. Formulate a hypothesis or theory. What do you think the answer might be? What do you think is causing the problem?
 3. Collect data. What information do you need to test your hypothesis? Where can you find it?
 4. Analyze the data. What do the data tell you? What patterns do you see?
 5. Draw conclusions. What do you think is the answer? What do you think is causing the problem?
- Presenting the Results:
 Once you have completed the search process, you need to present your findings to others. This can be done in a variety of ways, including:
- Writing a report. A written document that describes your search process and findings.
 - Creating a presentation. A visual representation of your search process and findings.
 - Giving a lecture. A verbal presentation of your search process and findings.
