

Abbreviated Arming

ARM 1

The installing company may have programmed the control with an abbreviated arming feature. This feature will allow you to arm the control and perform other commands using only the command key followed by the first digit of your PAC. Disarming however, will still require the entire code sequence.

This feature not only saves time but allows the freedom of letting a non-permanent user, such as a repairman, temporary help, etc., arm the system as they leave without knowing your complete PAC.

What To Do For A False Alarm

ARM 1

If for any reason a false alarm does occur, you should do the following:

1. Press the arm command (1) and your PAC.
2. The armed light should be off or blinking (to indicate ALARM MEMORY).
3. Notify the appropriate authorities of the alarm immediately.
4. Pressing the  key will stop the ALARM MEMORY indicator from blinking.

Monitoring Zones With The System Disarmed

MONITOR 6

The MONITOR command allows the control to monitor zones when it is disarmed. When the MONITOR is on, the control will beep when any burglar zone is opened.

For example, the MONITOR command will cause the control station to beep three times whenever the front door has been opened. Many businesses use this type of signal to announce that a customer has entered. In a residential application, the MONITOR command might be used to announce children coming and going.

To Turn Monitor On

1. The system must be disarmed.
2. Press the MONITOR command (6) then your PAC.
3. The control station will beep three times to signify that the MONITOR is on.
4. The control will beep three times when any burglar zone is opened.

Note: The MONITOR feature does not announce interior zones.

To Turn The Monitor Off

1. Press the MONITOR command (6) then your PAC.
2. The control station will beep two times to signify that you have turned the MONITOR off.

ZONE STATUS 2

Zone Status Display

The zone status command is used to identify which zones are opened or bypassed (shunted). This is useful prior to arming the system when the ready light is off or blinking. The control station lights become indicators for each zone when this command is used.

1. Lift the control station door to reveal the zone location label.
2. Press the zone status command (2) then your PAC.
3. The lights on the control will become indicators which indicate the status of each zone. Read the zone name labels for zones 01-08 that your installer applied to the left of each light (with the control station door lifted).
4. Status of each zone, 01-08, will now be indicated as follows:

LIGHT ON _____ ZONE OPEN (Window or door left open, etc.)
LIGHT BLINKING ____ ZONE SHUNTED (BYPASSED)
LIGHT OFF _____ ZONE IS SECURE

5. If your system is equipped with 16 zones, press the zone status command (2) once again to display zones 09-16. Pressing your PAC is not required in this step.

The zone status display will remain on for eight seconds after which the lights automatically switch back to normal mode. This display time may be extended by pressing any key except the .

After identifying the violated zone, recheck all doors, windows, etc. to correct the problem and to display a ready light. If the cause of the problem cannot be found, you may bypass the faulted zone or call your installer for service. Refer to BYPASSING ZONES (SHUNTING), page 9.

Alarm Memory Display

ALARM MEMORY 3

The armed light blinks to visually alert you when an alarm has occurred. The alarm memory command may be used to identify the specific zone that caused the most recent alarm.

1. Lift the control station door to reveal the zone location label.
2. Press the ALARM MEMORY command (3) then your PAC.
3. The lights on the control will now become alarm memory indicators of zones 01-08.
4. Any light that is ON indicates the zone that caused the most recent alarm. Read the zone name labels for zones 01-08 with the control station door lifted.
5. If your system has 16 zones, press the alarm memory command (3) once again to display zones 09-16. (Pressing your PAC is not required in this step).
6. The alarm memory display will remain on for eight seconds after which the lights automatically switch back to the normal mode. The display time may be extended for eight additional seconds by pressing any key except the .
