Ramesh Chandra Thakur, Ramesh Thakur, Waheguru Pal Singh Sidhu, 2006 The Iraq war was a multiple assault on the foundations and rules of the existing UN centred world order It called into question the adequacy of the existing institutions for articulating global norms and enforcing compliance with the demands of the international community It highlighted also the unwillingness of some key countries to wait until definitive proof before acting to meet the danger of the world's most destructive weapons falling into the hands of the world's most dangerous regimes It was simultaneously a test of the UN's willingness and ability to deal with brutal dictatorships and a searching scrutiny of the nature and exercise of American power The United States is the world's indispensable power but the United Nations is the world's indispensable institution The UN Security Council is the core of the international law enforcement system and the chief body for building consolidating and using the authority of the international community The United Nations has the primary responsibility to maintain international peace and security and is structured to discharge this responsibility in a multipolar world where the major powers have permanent membership of the key collective security decision making body namely the UN Security Council The emergence of the United States as the sole superpower after the end of the Cold War distorted the structural balance in the UN schema The United Nations is the main embodiment of the principle of multilateralism and the principal vehicle for the pursuit of multilateral goals The United States has global power soft as well as hard the United Nations is the fount of international authority Progress towards a world of a rules based civilized international order requires that US force be put to the service of lawful international authority This book examines these major normative and structural challenges from a number of different perspectives The SAGE International Encyclopedia of Mass Media and Society Debra L.
