The Difficult Art of Giving Francesca Sawaya,2014-07-15 The Difficult Art of Giving rethinks standard economic histories of the literary marketplace Traditionally American literary histories maintain that the post Civil War period marked the transition from a system of elite patronage and genteel amateurism to what is described as the free literary market and an era of self supporting professionalism These histories assert that the market helped to democratize literary production and consumption enabling writers to sustain themselves without the need for private sponsorship By contrast Francesca Sawaya demonstrates the continuing importance of patronage and the new significance of corporate based philanthropy for cultural production in the United States in the postbellum and modern periods Focusing on Henry James William Dean Howells Mark Twain Charles Chesnutt and Theodore Dreiser Sawaya explores the notions of a free market in cultural goods and the autonomy of the author Building on debates in the history of the emotions the history and sociology of philanthropy feminist theory and the new economic criticism Sawaya examines these major writers careers as well as their rich and complex representations of the economic world Their work she argues demonstrates that patronage and corporate based philanthropy helped construct the putatively free market in literature The book thereby highlights the social and economic interventions that shape markets challenging old and contemporary forms of free market fundamentalism

Adaptation Theory and Criticism Gordon E. Slethaug, 2014-06-19 Traditional critics of film adaptation generally assumed a that the written text is better than the film adaptation because the plot is more intricate and the language richer when pictorial images do not intrude b that films are better when particularly faithful to the original c that authors do not make good script writers and should not sully their imagination by writing film scripts d and often that American films lack the complexity of authored texts because they are sourced out of Hollywood The faithfulness view has by and large disappeared and intertextuality is now a generally received notion but the field still lacks studies with a postmodern methodology and lens Exploring Hollywood feature films as well as small studio productions Adaptation Theory and Criticism explores the intertextuality of a dozen films through a series of case studies introduced through discussions of postmodern methodology and practice Providing the reader with informative background on theories of film adaptation as well as carefully articulated postmodern methodology and issues Gordon Slethaug includes several case studies of major Hollywood productions and small studio films some of which have been discussed before Age of Innocence Gangs of New York and Do the Right Thing and some that have received lesser consideration Six Degrees of Separation Smoke Smoke Signals Broken Flowers and various Snow White narratives including Enchanted Mirror Mirror and Snow White and the Huntsman Useful for both film and literary studies students Adaptation Theory and Criticism cogently combines the existing scholarship and uses previous theories to engage readers to think about the current state of American literature and film
