The Status of Student Involvement in University Governance in Kenya M. Mulinge, N. Arasa, 2017-05-05 This book examines the concept of the democratization of governance in universities in Kenya with particular emphasis on students involvement in governance processes and decision making Data were collected from members of the student community utilizing a structured self administered questionnaire and from purposively selected key informants and focus group discussants drawn from Kenyatta University representing the public sector and the United States International University representing the private sector The guiding argument for the study was that shared governance one of the principles of good governance is critical in enabling the universities to deliver their visions and the missions effectively The results revealed that while in principle Kenyan universities have embraced democratic governance in which all stakeholders including students have a role to play in practice they continue to violate the core principles of good governance particularly shared governance Specifically students who are major stakeholders in university education are largely excluded from significant structures of governance thereby limiting their influence and participation Although their representation is mainly provided via student self governance organs unions associations and or councils their effectiveness is undermined considerably by the lack of trust and confidence of the student body and the unending manipulation by top university administrators and external political actors Student active involvement in decision making is mainly confined to lower levels such as the school faculty and departmental programme The authors call for a paradigm shift in the involvement of students in the governance of universities in ways that discourage the current culture of tokenism and political correctness that characterizes public and private universities in Kenya

Centre (Canada), 2006 Kenya's and Zambia's Relations with China 1949-2019 Jodie Yuzhou Sun, 2023 Examines the history of post colonial Kenya s and Zambia s relations with the People s Republic of China from ideological political economic and social perspectives Africa has become a major platform from which to analyse and understand China s growing influence in the global South Yet the impact of their historical relationship has been largely overlooked Through the triangulation of the global Cold War African history and Chinese history this study provides a detailed analysis of China Africa relations in the second half of the 20th century Examining the encounters conflicts and dynamics of China Kenya Zambia relations from the 1950s until the present as well as the basis on which historical narratives have been constructed the book presents two contrasting state perspectives underlining the concept of African agency Driven by a class based analysis of world revolution Communist China s foreign policy did not distinguish significantly between Kenya and Zambia Both countries sought ideological and material support from China in the years after their independence The Kenya African National Union under both Jomo Kenyatta and Daniel Moi pursued a consistently pragmatic foreign agenda and despite political tensions and ideological rifts with China since the mid 1960s Sino Kenyan trade has continued to grow steadily In contrast China Zambia relations under Kenneth Kaunda were cordial despite their political differences Zambian leaders maintained a relatively high consensus that any alleged Chinese Communist threat would not be allowed to fuel power struggles within their United National Independence Party Challenging both the widely accepted role of China Africa's historical lineage as well as the tendency to assume uniformity in China's relationships across the continent the author explains the development of these relationships and sheds light on the historical underpinnings or lack thereof on contemporary China Africa relations Innovative Water Finance in Africa Cush Ngonzo Luwesi, Atakilte Beyene, 2023-10-28

Water has become increasingly central to addressing multiple development and environmental objectives in the course of climate change Exploring the multiple dimensions of water governance policy and management in a holistic way is thus imperative for financial innovations to take place in the water sector This book constitutes first of all a reference document allowing African managers and policymakers to broaden their knowledge of financing strategies and tactics in order to raise funds for water services provision and water resources development Additionally the book reviews the agenda on water and sanitation services in order to ensure water resources development has a place in funding structures The book presents and discusses contemporary instruments of financing water services and water resources development in Africa In this regard three major thematic areas are recognized as key Coverage of the legal and institutional contexts pertaining to water financing innovations an assessment of economic mechanisms and principles subtending financial innovations in the water sector and applications of innovative water financing mechanisms based on scale formation and adoption practices This book highlights the principles of economic profitability and financial sustainability to enable creditworthiness and a snowball effect of borrowing and will be of interest to researchers policymakers and academics as well as development agencies and financiers of sustainable development and environmental Blue and Green economies Recent Advances on Nitrogen Use Efficiency in Crop Plants and Climatic Challenges Hamada Abdelgawad, 2023-08-25 Nitrogen N is a mineral nutrient that is essential for the normal growth and development of plants that is required in the highest quantity It is an element of nucleic acids proteins and photosynthetic metabolites therefore crucial for crop growth and metabolic processes Recently it was estimated that N fertilizers could meet the 48% demand of the world's population However overuse and misuse of N fertilizers raised environmental concerns associated with N losses by nitrous oxide N₂O emissions ammonia NH₃ volatilization and nitrate NO₃ leaching For instance NH₃ is a pollutant in the atmosphere N₂O is a greenhouse gas that has a warming potential 298 times higher than CO₂ and contributes to ozone depletion and NO₃ causes eutrophication of water bodies Agricultural practices account for about 90% of NH₃ and 70% of N₂O anthropogenic emissions worldwide The efficient use of N chemical fertilizers can be attained through cultural and agronomic practices Nitrogen use efficiency NUE is an important trait that has been studied for decades in different crops The grain production or economic return from the per unit supply of N fertilizer simply explained the NUE Several definitions were suggested by different researchers NUE can be defined as the product of N uptake efficiency NUpE and N utilization efficiency NUtE An increase in NUE increases the yield biomass quality and quantity of crops N is generally applied as chemical fertilizer to the soil whereas a small amount is added to some crops like grain legumes through the fixation process On the other hand crop plants take N through the root system in the form of nitrate or ammonium which is thereby used in different metabolic processes A number of studies have been conducted to increase the NUE in different crops and it has been indicated that NUE can be improved by agronomic physiological biochemical breeding as well as molecular approaches Nitrogen is the main limiting nutrient after carbon hydrogen and oxygen for the photosynthetic process phyto hormonal and proteomic changes and the growth development of plants to complete their lifecycle Excessive and inefficient use of N fertilizer results in enhanced crop production costs and atmospheric pollution Atmospheric nitrogen 71% in the molecular form is not available for the plants For the world s sustainable food production and atmospheric benefits there is an urgent need to upgrade nitrogen use efficiency in the agricultural farming system Nitrogen losses are too high due to excess amount low plant population poor application methods etc which can go up to 70% of total available nitrogen These losses can be minimized up to 15 30% by adopting improved agronomic approaches such as optimal dosage of nitrogen application of N by using canopy sensors maintaining plant population drip fertigation and legume based intercropping Therefore the major concern of modern days is to save economic resources without sacrificing farm yield as well as the safety of the global environment i e greenhouse gas emissions ammonium volatilization and nitrate leaching Home Economics and Domestic Subjects Review ,1981
