The Schenley Experiment Jake Oresick, 2017-04-14 The Schenley Experiment is the story of Pittsburgh's first public high school a social incubator in a largely segregated city that was highly even improbably successful throughout its 156 year existence Established in 1855 as Central High School and reorganized in 1916 Schenley High School was a model of innovative public education and an ongoing experiment in diversity Its graduates include Andy Warhol actor Bill Nunn and jazz virtuoso Earl Hines and its prestigious academic program and pensions lured such teachers as future Pulitzer Prize winner Willa Cather The subject of investment as well as destructive neglect the school reflects the history of the city of Pittsburgh and provides a study in both the best and worst of urban public education practices there and across the Rust Belt Integrated decades before Brown v Board of Education Schenley succumbed to default segregation during the white flight of the 1970s it rose again to prominence in the late 1980s when parents camped out in six day long lines to enroll their children in visionary superintendent Richard C Wallace's reinvigorated school Although the historic triangular building was a cornerstone of its North Oakland neighborhood and a showpiece for the city of Pittsburgh officials closed the school in 2008 citing over 50 million in necessary renovations a controversial event that captured national attention Schenley alumnus Jake Oresick tells this story through interviews historical documents and hundreds of first person accounts drawn from a community indelibly tied to the school A memorable important work of local and educational history his book is a case study of desegregation magnet education and the changing nature and legacies of America's oldest public schools International Plant Proteomics Organization (INPPO) World Congress 2014 Joshua L. Heazlewood, Jesús V. Jorrín-Novó, Ganesh Kumar Agrawal, Silvia Mazzuca, Sabine Lühje, 2017-02-08 The field of proteomics has advanced considerably over the past two decades The ability to delve deeper into an organism's proteome identify an array of post translational modifications and profile differentially abundant proteins has greatly expanded the utilization of proteomics Improvements to instrumentation in conjunction with the development of these reproducible workflows have driven the adoption and application of this technology by a wider research community However the full potential of proteomics is far from being fully exploited in plant biology and its translational application needs to be further developed In 2011 a group of plant proteomic researchers established the International Plant Proteomics Organization INPPO to advance the utilization of this technology in plants as well as to create a way for plant proteomics researchers to interact collaborate and exchange ideas The INPPO conducted its inaugural world congress in mid 2014 at the University of Hamburg Germany Plant proteomic researchers from around the world were in attendance and the event marked the maturation of this research community The Research Topic captures the opinions ideas and research discussed at the congress and encapsulates the approaches that were being applied in plant proteomics Ssc Stenographers (Grade C & D) Computer Based Examination (Cbe)-2020 (10 Practice Sets)

Counseling 21st Century Students for Optimal College and Career Readiness Corine Fitzpatrick, Kathleen Costantini, 2022-02-17 This second edition presents an updated action based curriculum for high school counselors that will meet the needs of 21st century students helping to foster their growth and engage them in learning what they need to succeed beyond high school This book takes a comprehensive developmental approach focusing on 9th 12th grade students rather than solely on those in 11th and 12th grade It provides a model for developing and enhancing a successful college advising office as well as essential advice on methods of working with parents Specific topics discussed include successful transition to 9th grade using technology in the college and career advising process assisting and advising students in college research and application and helping seniors make successful transitions to college There is also a special focus on students in urban and rural schools to enable them to have the same enriched experiences in their college and career advising program as those students in private and suburban schools The curriculum is geared for use by school counselors college advisors and readers in graduate counseling student courses Real-world Data and Real-World Evidence in Regulatory Decision Making Council for International Organizations of Medical Sciences,2024-05-29 In recent years many medicines regulatory agencies have expressed increased willingness to consider real world evidence RWE that derives from the review and or analysis of real world data RWD to support claims of efficacy or effectiveness as well as of safety This increased willingness is changing the regulatory environment in which RWE is generated and used This consensus report aims to describe the potential use of RWE for decision making RWD and data sources key scientific considerations in the generation of RWE and ethical and governance issues in using RWD The intended audience for this report includes medicinal product regulators healthcare payers health care and medicinal products industries researchers bioethicists patients and health care professionals This report was developed to inform discussions about the use of RWD and RWE for regulatory and health care decision making including decisions to make a product available for use authorisation to cover the costs of its use reimbursement and to use a product for a particular patient clinical use This report reflects the opinions of the Council for International Organizations of Medical Sciences CIOMS Working Group XIII on Real world data and real world evidence in regulatory decision making and it was finalised after considering comments received during a public consultation Real World Evidence in Regulatory Decision Making (Adrian Hon),2024-03-28 Gizmodo Lucien Chen King PlayStation Electronic Arts Uber App App gamification Uber Martin Ford J Bradford DeLong Anne Helen Petersen BuzzFeed Can t Even How Millennials Became the Burnout Generation David Sax The Revenge of Analog Real Things and Why They Matter St. Louis Daily Market Reporter and Merchants Exchange Price Current ,1919 Interphase Between Aging and Neurodegenerative Diseases Walter E. Müller,Anne Eckert,P. Hemachandra Reddy,2020-01-21 The purpose of this Research Topic is to discuss the latest developments in aging and neurodegenerative diseases Aging represents the major risk factor of the two most relevant neurodegenerative diseases Parkinson s disease PD and Alzheimer s disease AD It is generally accepted that symptoms of PD correlate with the severity of degeneration of dopaminergic substantia nigra neurons In most cases neuronal loss during aging is not sufficient to cause clinical symptoms but only leads to a preclinical state of PD However in a small number of our population neurodegeneration by aging gets accelerated by individual e g brain injuries environmental e g toxins and genetic e g mutations of the alpha synuclein gene factors to reach the critical threshold for clinical symptoms during lifetime Thus neurodegeneration in PD appears to represent the common final pathway of normal brain aging and all other risk factors including genetics and the accumulation of the neurotoxic alpha synuclein protein While aging alone is generally agreed to be sufficient for at least the preclinical state of PD the situation in AD seems to be different Aging as the major and well documented risk factor of AD has been neglected for decades Biochemical mechanisms of brain aging and the cognitive deficits of normal brain aging were seen as two not related and independent processes not related to AD AD has always been characterized for decades by the presence of histopathological alterations extracellular amyloid containing plaques and intracellular tangles of hyperphosphorylated tau protein by neurodegeneration synaptic deficits and finally neuronal loss as well as by severe cognitive deficits clinically often accompanied by neuropsychiatric symptoms like delusions as already described in the first famous patient Auguste D at the Psychiatric Hospital of Frankfurt If or if not one or both of the two histopathological hallmarks play a causative role remains unclear until now The discovery of homocytotic risk genes in most of the very rare probably less than 1% cases of early onset AD which share increased production of amyloid A as one but probably not the only one common property led to the hypothesis of A as the major causative factor for the development of AD It was neglected that plaques density in the brain of AD patients did not correlate with presence and severity of clinical symptoms while synaptic deficits did so even in first observations already published many years ago Based on the Amyloid hypothesis many drug treatments to remove A plaques were developed Even if all seemed to remove A to some extent all strategies failed to improve the symptoms of dementia Thus other concepts to explain the development of clinical symptoms of AD over time are needed These should include the brain aging process not only as a statistical but also as a causative contributing factor These concepts should not only rely on cell or animal models but should much more take into account the disease and the patients A closer look at the situation in PD will certainly be helpful

The Death of Public School Cara Fitzpatrick, 2023-09-12 A Pulitzer Prize winning journalist shows how conservatives have pushed for a revolution in public education one that threatens the existence of the traditional public school America has relied on public schools for 150 years but the system is increasingly under attack With declining enrollment and diminished trust in public education policies that steer tax dollars into private schools have grown rapidly To understand how we got here The Death of Public School argues we must look back at the turbulent history of school choice Cara Fitzpatrick uncovers the long journey of school choice a story full of fascinating people and strange political alliances She shows how school choice evolved from a segregationist tool in the South in the 1950s to a policy embraced by advocates for educational equity in the North to a conservative strategy for securing government funds for private schools in the twenty first century As a result education is poised to become a private commodity rather than a universal good The Death of Public
