Foundations of Psychological Testing Sandra A. McIntire, Leslie A. Miller, 2007 I used McIntire and Miller's book on testing in my research course two years ago Students loved this book for its clarity and personality It is hard to imagine how the authors could have improved on the First Edition Nevertheless this new edition of the Foundations of Psychological Testing is better than any of its competitors The authors should be congratulated for making a topic that has been formidable to students in the past much more accessible to today's students Douglas Herrmann Emeritus Professor Indiana State University Director of Research Practical Memory Institute The Second Edition of Foundations of Psychological Testing is a scholarly yet pragmatic and easy to understand text for undergraduate students new to the field of psychological testing Using an engaging conversational format the authors aim to prepare students to be informed consumers as test users or test takers not to teach students to administer or interpret individual psychological tests New to the Second Edition Incorporates new content This edition includes a new chapter on computerized testing and is updated throughout to reflect new research tests and examples Offers new learning strategies To further promote student comprehension new and enhanced learning aids include a blueprint of text material In the News and On the Web boxes Test Spotlights and an Engaging in the Learning Process section at the end of each chapter with learning activities study tips and practice test questions Encourages instruction through conversation In response to students' requests to simplify complex concepts the authors use an easy to read conversational style This format clearly and concisely communicates the basics of psychological testing and relates these basics to practical situations that students can recognize and embrace Instructor Resources on CD are available to qualified adopters including chapter outlines discussion questions teaching tips review questions and more

Constructing Capacities Patrick Alan Danaher, 2013-02-14 Constructing Capacities Building Capabilities through Learning and Engagement explores several contemporary manifestations of individuals groups and communities participating in varying types of learning and thereby engaging effectively and productively with their contexts and environments in order to build and develop their multiple capacities These capacities are seen as crucial to overcoming particular kinds of challenges and to attaining specific types of aspirations that are valued highly by the respective individuals groups and communities Despite this common valuing of constructing capacities we still know relatively little about how capacities can be built and enhanced in ways that are equitable sustainable and transformative Much of the literature highlights contextually specific factors that facilitate capacity building for particular groups of participants at specific times and that are founded on demonstrated principles such as understanding and engaging with those participants respective aspirations circumstances and needs Yet what works to develop capabilities in one context might not succeed in another context even with the same participants generating momentum and achieving scale and sustainability are often challenges when seeking to build capacities For all these reasons it is both timely and useful to extend contemporary understandings of capacities and how they can be constructed effectively and sustainably The 14 chapters in this book take up this challenge by presenting theoretically framed and rigorously researched accounts of successful capacity building in diverse educational settings clustered around four foci conceptualising and contextualising capacities constructing students and teachers capacities constructing workers capacities constructing researchers capacities These accounts generate new and important understandings of what capacities are how they can be constructed and supported and how they enhance positive outcomes for individuals and communities as well as nationally and globally
