Acute Exposure Guideline Levels for Selected Airborne Chemicals National Research Council, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Board on Environmental Studies and Toxicology, Committee on Toxicology, Committee on Acute Exposure Guideline Levels, 2007-03-27 In 1993 the National Research Council's Committee on Toxicology developed criteria and methods for EPA and the Agency for Toxic Substances and Disease Registry ATSDR to develop community emergency exposure levels for extremely hazardous substances for the general population A few years later the National Advisory Committee for Acute Exposure Guideline Levels for Hazardous Substances NAC composed of members of EPA DOD other federal and state agencies industry academia and other organizations was established to identify review and interpret toxicologic and other scientific data to develop acute exposure guidelines AEGLs for high priority acutely toxic chemicals Three levels AEGL 1 AEGL 2 and AEGL 3 are developed for each of five exposure periods 10 min 30 min 1 hr 4 hr and 8 hr and are distinguished by varying degrees of severity of toxic effects This current report reviews the NAC reports for their scientific validity completeness and consistency with the NRC guideline reports developed in 1993 and 2001 This report is the fifth volume in the series and covers AEGLs for chlorine dioxide chlorine trifluoride cyclohexylamine ethylenediamine hydrofluoroether 7100 and tetranitromethane It concludes that the AEGLs developed by NAC are scientifically valid and consistent with the NRC guideline reports AEGLs are needed for a wide range of planning response and prevention applications These values provide data critical to evacuation decisions and discussions between community leaders and industries as they seek ways to minimize the health impact should the chemical release occur Some of the finalized AEGLs have been officially adopted by the Department of the Army FEMA and the Department of Transportation as the official levels for use by those agencies
