

LINE

A line is a mark between two points. There are various types of lines, from straight to squiggly to curved and more. Lines can be used for a wide range of purposes: drawing a word or phrase, connecting content to one another, creating patterns and much more.

SHAPE

Height + width + shape. We all learned basic shapes in grade school — triangles, squares, circles and rectangles. But a shape can also shape and be used to great abilities.

There are three basic types of shape: geometric (triangles, squares, circles etc.), natural (leaves, animals, trees, people), and abstracted forms (stylized people, graphic representations etc.).

VALUE

Value is how light or how dark an area looks. A gradient, shown above, is a great way to visualize value — everything from dark to white, all the shades in-between. You can use value to create depth and light, to create a pattern, to lead the eye, or to emphasize.

COLOR

Color is used to generate emotions, define importance, create visual interest and more. CMYK (cyan/magenta/yellow/black) is subtractive, RGB (red/green/blue) is additive.

Some colors are warm and active (orange, red), some are cool and passive (blue, purple).

There are various color types (primary to analogous) and relationships (complementary to triad) worth learning more about as well.

TEXTURE

Texture relates to the surface of an object: the look or feel of it. Textures like a rough texture, (dressed) hair or smooth and subtle textures. Using texture in design is a great way to add depth and visual interest. Printed material has actual, tactile textures while screen material has implied textures.

ELEMENTS OF DESIGN

quick reference sheet

SIZE

Size is how small or large something is, a small object vs. an entire large object. For example, the size to define importance, create visual interest in a design and connecting ideas, attract attention and more.

Space is the area around or between elements in a design. It can be used to organize or group information. Don't effectively use space can make a design look cluttered and less effective.
