

The light, speckled moth rather than the black moth.

Activity A:
Light trees

Get the Gizmo ready:

- Click Reset (↺).
- Check that the LIGHT TREES tab is selected.

Introduction: Before the 19th century in England, the air was very clean. The bark on trees was usually light in color. Abundant lichens growing on tree trunks also lightened their appearance.

Question: How does the color of a peppered moth affect survival?

1. Predict: Over time, what will happen to the populations of light and dark moths on light trees?

Over time, I believe the light moths will persist and procreate as the dark moths start to fade.

2. Experiment: Click Play and hunt peppered moths on light tree trunks for five years. In each year, try to capture as many moths as you can. Note: You can use the spacebar on your keyboard to quickly advance to the next tree.

After 5 years, select the TABLE tab and record the percentages of each moth type. (Note: The table shows current populations of each moth, not the number of captured moths.)

Year	Dark moths	Light moths
0	50%	50%
1	50%	50%
2	41%	59%
3	39%	61%
4	28%	72%
5	29%	71%

3. Analyze: What do your results show?

According to my findings, the population of light moths is steadily rising while that of dark moths is steadily declining.

4. Apply: Which type of moth do you think was more common before the 19th century, when most trees were light in color?
