The Common Core State Standards have put close reading in the spotlight as never before While middle and high school teachers want and need students to connect with analyze and learn from both literary and informational texts many are unsure how to foster the skills students must have in order to develop deep and nuanced understanding of complicated content Is there a process to follow How is close reading different from shared reading and other common literacy practices How do you prepare students to have their ability to analyze complex texts measured by high stakes assessments And how do you fit close reading instruction and experiences into an already crowded curriculum Literacy experts Barbara Moss Diane Lapp Maria Grant and Kelly Johnson answer these questions and more as they explain how to teach middle and high school students to be close readers how to make close reading a habit of practice across the content areas and why doing so will build content knowledge Informed by the authors extensive field experience and enriched by dozens of real life scenarios and downloadable tools and templates this book explores Text complexity and how to determine if a particular text is right for your learning purposes and your students The process and purpose of close reading with an emphasis on its role in developing the 21st century thinking speaking and writing skills essential for academic communication and college and career readiness How to plan teach and manage close reading sessions across the academic disciplines including the kinds of questions to ask texts to use and supports to provide How to assess close reading and help all students regardless of linguistic cultural or academic background connect deeply with what they read and derive meaning from complex texts Equipping students with the tools and process of close reading sets them on the road to becoming analytical and critical thinkers and empowered and independent learners In this comprehensive resource you ll find everything you need to start their journey Gentleman's Magazine, Or Monthly Intelligencer Sylvanus Urban (pseud. van Edward Cave.), 1835 Simulation and Learning Franco Landriscina, 2013-03-14

The main idea of this book is that to comprehend the instructional potential of simulation and to design effective simulation based learning environments one has to consider both what happens inside the computer and inside the students minds The framework adopted to do this is model centered learning in which simulation is seen as particularly effective when learning requires a restructuring of the individual mental models of the students as in conceptual change Mental models are by themselves simulations and thus simulation models can extend our biological capacity to carry out simulative reasoning For this reason recent approaches in cognitive science like embodied cognition and the extended mind hypothesis are also considered in the book A conceptual model called the epistemic simulation cycle is proposed as a blueprint for the comprehension of the cognitive activities involved in simulation based learning and for instructional design A Catalogue of
