

HERBERT No. 20 CAPSTAN LATHE

Fig. 16 The Capstan Slide.

CAPSTAN SLIDE.

This is shown in Fig. 16. The lower slide is clamped to the bed by means of parallel strips which extend the whole length of the slide. When locating the slide for any piece of work the clamping bolts are slackened and the slide placed as close to the chuck as the nature of the work and tools will allow so that the overhang of the upper slide is kept to a minimum.

The slide carries six adjustable stops which rotate with the hexagon turret making them self-selecting. The stops can be quickly adjusted using the brace provided and each stop is individually locked by the grub screw in the periphery of the rotating collar. The stops trip the feed and then after a slight further movement of the slide by the pilot wheel, form a dead stop.

The Capstan indexes automatically when the slide is moved backwards by the pilot wheel. Care should be taken when moving it back for indexing always to bring the slide against the dead stop before coming forward.
