Positioning Diversity in Kenyan Schools Malve von,2022-06-01 Education is considered key for societies to achieve greater social cohesion and equality Yet schools as the main providers of formal education have increasingly come into question concerning their role in manifesting and perpetuating social categorisations inequalities and discrimination instead of decreasing existing fragmentations and challenging power relations and hierarchies As a diverse society Kenya is faced with power struggles and rivalries between different groups for instance along ethnic lines often constructed deep in colonial history This affects teaching and learning in school and the result is that Kenya is faced with vast disparities in terms of educational access and success rendering some social groups marginalised and others favoured Positioning Diversity at Kenyan Schools explores the ways in which teachers in Kenyan primary and secondary schools experience and deal with social categorisations and diversity in terms of ethnicity gender wealth culture religion etc in their professional practice and in the current education system Using critical pedagogy and diversity theory as a lens for positioning diversity in Kenyan schools the questions that this book sets out to answer are In what ways do the teachers and schools practices lead to transformation in terms of more social equality and less discrimination In what ways do the practices manifest existing group categorisations hierarchies and discrimination How can schools and teaching practices in postcolonial Kenya become more inclusive and foster social cohesion and equality communities within the distinct geopolitical spaces problematic As such both formal and informal dynamics made the common Bukusu Bugisu borderland a site of numerous permutations

Generating Actionable Climate Information in Support of Climate Adaptation and Mitigation Andreas Marc Fischer, Janette Bessembinder, Fai Fung, Hans Olav Hygen, Katharine Jacobs, 2024-07-04 Climate change is under way in full extent, adversely affecting more and more facets in nature, society, and economy. The observations and the projections of these changes are increasingly important to consider in long-term planning given the need to adapt to the multi-sectoral climate impacts that can be anticipated. In most cases, it is the information on the local scale in a user-oriented way that is most relevant in this context. Over recent years, many countries and organisations have set up climate services such as factsheets, brochures, web tools, data to enable downstream applications and to form a decision support basis for climate action planning, e.g. KNMI14 in the Netherlands, UKCP18 in the UK, CH2018 in Switzerland, Climate Change in Australia, NCA4 in the US, Copernicus Climate Data Store C3S. The Report: Kenya 2014 Oxford Business Group, 2014-11-13 The country has a strong private sector and received encouraging forecasts of new oil, gas, and water reserves which, if harnessed appropriately, bode well for future growth. While a pending international court case resulting from prior elections provoked a measure of uncertainty, the country's medium to long-term economic outlook is robust. With over 40% of the population under the age of 15, Kenya stands to benefit from a significant demographic dividend provided that sufficient jobs can be found when this population bulge enters the workforce. The country has a reasonably sized industrial base, competitive infrastructure, and a large agricultural sector, all of which offer opportunities for capital-intensive investment.
