Grade 2014 Economics Paper 2 Scope:

Effects of agricultural mechanization on economies of scope in crop production in Nigeria Takeshima, Hiroyuki, Hatzenbuehler, Patrick L., Edeh, Hyacinth, 2018-09-06 Agricultural mechanization has often been characterized by scale effects and increased specialization. Such characterizations however fail to explain how mechanization may grow in Africa where production environments are more heterogeneous and diversification of production may help in mitigating risks from increasingly uncertain climatic conditions. Using panel data from farm households and crop specific production costs in Nigeria we estimate how the adoption of animal traction or tractors affects the economies of scope EOS between rice non rice grains legume seed crops and other crops which are the crop groups that are most widely grown with animal traction or tractors in Nigeria. The results indicate that the adoption of these mechanization technologies is associated with lower EOS between non rice grains legume seed crops and other crops but greater EOS between rice and other crops. An increase in EOS for rice is indicated in both primal and dual analytical approaches. Mechanical technologies may raise EOS between crops that are grown in more heterogeneous environments even though it may lower EOS between crops that are grown in relatively similar environments. To the best of our knowledge this is the first paper that shows the effects of mechanical technologies on EOS in agriculture in developing countries. Economic Policy Reforms 2014 Going for Growth Interim Report OECD, 2014-02-21 Going for Growth is the OECD's regular report on structural reforms in policy areas that have been identified as priorities to boost incomes in OECD and major non OECD countries: Brazil, China, India, Indonesia, Russian Federation and South Africa. We sincerely hope that the conference would not only show the participants a broad overview of the latest research results on related fields but also provide them with a significant platform for academic connection and exchange. Behavioral Science & Policy: Volume 2, Issue 1 Craig Fox, Sim B. Sitkin, 2016-11-22 The success of nearly all public and private sector policies hinges on the behavior of individuals, groups and organizations. Today such behaviors are better understood than ever.

thanks to a growing body of practical behavioral science research. However, policymakers often are unaware of behavioral science findings that may help them craft and execute more effective and efficient policies. The pages of this new journal will become a meeting ground, a place where scientists and non-scientists can encounter clearly described behavioral research that can be put into action. By design, the scope of BSP is broad, with topics spanning health care, financial decisionmaking, energy and the environment, education and culture, justice and ethics, and work place practices. Contributions will be made by researchers with expertise in psychology, sociology, law, behavioral economics, organization science, decision science, and marketing. The journal is a key offering of the Behavioral Science Policy Association in partnership with the Brookings Institution. The mission of BSPA is to foster dialog between social scientists, policymakers, and other practitioners in order to promote the application of rigorous empirical behavioral science in ways that serve the public interest. BSPA does not advance a particular agenda or political perspective. The first issue's contents follow:
