

WHAT PEOPLE ARE SAYING

MR. LLOYD GEORGE ON LIBERALISM—LADY ASTOR ON CONSERVATISM—MR. J. H. THOMAS ON LABOUR—NORMAN ANGELL ON FOREIGN POLICY AND BUSINESS—SIR S. LOW AND THE TRADERS

MR. LLOYD GEORGE AND LIBERALISM

MR. LLOYD GEORGE, writing in the Daily Chronicle, on the General Election, says that "the only real advance was that made by the Liberals. In comparing the aggregate poll of 1923 with that of the election of 1922, the Tory poll has receded and the Labour vote does not represent any very substantial increase, but Liberalism made undoubted strides."

"The aggregate Liberal poll at the last election was 3,500,000. At this election it reached the total of over 4,300,000. That represents an increase of 800,000 votes. No other party approached that record of progress. Liberalism added over 13 per cent. to its strength. The other parties remain stationary."

"The prospect is one in which Liberals may well rejoice. In the last battle they recovered much lost ground. The only majority in this House is one in favour of Liberal principles and Liberal measures. They can now re-organise their forces and prepare for the next struggle with every confidence in the result."

LADY ASTOR AND THE COUNTRY'S MORAL FORCES

LADY (NANCY) ASTOR, M.P., has an important letter in the Times on the country's moral forces.

"I am inclined to agree," she says, "that the women voters are mainly responsible for the downfall of the Conservative Party. They were influenced by the 'dear food' cry. But that is not all. Many of us survived it."

"Since I have been in Parliament I have been shocked by the attitude of hostility of many Conservatives to questions of welfare affecting women. This year, just before the election, the Conservative Conference turned down my proposal that boys and girls between 14 and 16 who could not get work should be given training and discipline. A year before, the same Conference tried to shoot me down when I advocated housing."

"The Conservative Party is the only party which opposes the leaders of all the Christian Churches on Temperance. In Parliament the main attack on Bills to keep juveniles out of publichouses, or to protect young girls from criminal assault, or to give women equal rights of guardianship over their children, or to appoint women police, etc., has come from Conservative M.P.'s—unsupported, it is true, by their leaders, but also unchecked and unreprieved by them."

"These considerations may not appear to figure very decisively in an election campaign, but they turn thousands of progressive women into active Liberal and Labour workers, and make hundreds of thousands of plain, honest women voters feel that the Conservative Party is the party of reaction, and the other parties the parties of progress. The moral, spiritual, and domestic forces of this country are becoming more powerful every day. Any party which ignores or offends them must suffer, as I have repeatedly (but with complete lack of success) warned our party organisers and leaders. Our party by this election has been purged of many of its worst reactionaries. Has it learnt its lesson?"

MR. J. H. THOMAS, M.P., ON LABOUR AND THE BALLOT BOX

MR. J. H. THOMAS, M.P., says:—

"It must be kept in mind that Labour's position to-day is not due to bombs or revolutions, but is due exclusively to the legitimate, if I may say so, intelligent, use of the ballot-box, and we must all endeavour to make that the real avenue of expressing the nation's will. I observe with amazement the threats of taking money out of the country and the attempt to cause a financial panic and such like if Labour came in—all of which, of course, is very amusing, and certainly does not frighten anybody."

"The wealth of the nation is represented by its railways, its mines, its factories, etc. Are they going suddenly to be carted off? Where is the money to go? Is there any place in the world safer than this country? Are they unmindful of the fact that in the course of the building up of the trade unions and co-operative societies this question of sound business has provided excellent training in business methods for many of our men?"

MR. NORMAN ANGELL ON NEED FOR SYSTEM OF BARGAINING

MR. NORMAN ANGELL has delivered an address on "Foreign Policy and the Business Man" at Stationers' Hall, before the Livery Committee of the Stationers' Company.

Mr. Angell said that two propositions were, to his mind, quite self-evident. First, that Great Britain's capacity to feed its population was not equal to more than half the present number. Therefore, we were largely dependent on foreign nations for our supplies, and if those nations had no more than enough for themselves, Great Britain could not maintain herself. If there were no world surpluses, our foreign trade would disappear, and our unemployed, instead of being, as now, a million and a half, would amount to even as many as five millions.

Secondly, if the international trade, by which we at present lived, was to be maintained it must be embodied in an economic code, which would settle questions about which the world had hitherto fought with bitterness.

His book, The Great Illusion, did not prophesy the impossibility or the unlikelihood of war; it actually screamed over the inevitability of war unless our foreign policy were changed, and we adopted a system of bargaining instead of a policy of fighting. The point he made in his book was that, if we obtained a victory in any future war, we ought not to use that victory for anything but obtaining trading rights.

The world had now experienced a great war, but what had happened? We had never been in a position of such political power, and we had never been in such an insecure position from the economic point of view. More than that, we had before us the prospect of a new war in the present condition of Europe, unless we set up the principle of bargaining. What was the good of pointing out these things to our statesmen? We had our opportunity at Versailles, when we held the Central Powers at our mercy. If the Big Four had then announced a new economic code, it would have been accepted with both hands. In that case, we should not have had the German mark at an astronomical figure; we should not have had a million and a half unemployed; and the income tax would not be what it was now.

SIR SIDNEY LOW AND THE TWO TRADERS

SIR SIDNEY LOW, writing in the Weekly Dispatch on "Profiteering and Prices," says:—

"In England every producer is running under weights which make those of his competitors abroad seem light. To the State he pays no taxes, mostly direct taxes, between three and four times as much as the Frenchman, six times as much as the Italian, probably twenty times as much as the German, and a good deal more even than the American, whose obligations are to be substantially reduced next year."

"Now these liabilities, however rightly incurred, however creditably recognised and discharged, are so much dead weight on all our business."

"Let us suppose that there are two tradesmen in adjacent streets, each selling the same articles and having about the same turnover, which would yield to either an annual net profit of £2,000. Mr. A., however, has borrowed £20,000 at 5 per cent., while B. has no such encumbrance. The former, therefore, must draw an additional thousand per annum from his business, so that he must either be content with half his rival's income or raise his prices."

"This is the unhappy case of the British manufacturer working for a foreign market."

Love as Passion Niklas Luhmann,2014-12-08 In this important book Niklas Luhmann one of the leading social thinkers of the late 20th century analyses the emergence of love as the basis of personal relationships in modern societies He argues that while family systems remained intact in the transition from traditional to modern societies a semantics for love developed to accommodate extra marital relationships this semantics was then transferred back into marriage and eventually transformed marriage itself Drawing on a diverse range of historical and literary sources Luhmann retraces the emergence and evolution of the special semantics of passionate love that has come to form the basis of modern forms of intimacy and personal relationships This classic book by Luhmann has been widely recognized as a work of major importance It is an outstanding contribution to social theory and it provides an original and illuminating perspective on the nature of modern marriage and sexuality

I Can't Fall In Love (English Edition) Renée Conte, 2025-08-21

Five years had passed since Andrea and Beatrice had last seen each other in person and if it hadn t been for that incomplete message she had sent him by mistake they probably wouldn t have met again The two young people had met when they were still children during their summer holidays on the beach at Follonica A sincere and innocent friendship was immediately born between them which grew stronger every summer until as teenagers they realized that that friendship had turned into a tender infatuation especially on Andrea s part But their beautiful friendship did not continue due to the break off of the engagement between Beatrice s mother and her partner who no longer allowed her to return to Follonica Although Beatrice and Andrea both lived in Milan they never had the chance to meet During the year Andrea he used to study in Switzerland in the summer he spent his holidays in Follonica Then once he graduated from high school he moved to New York to continue his studies A distance that is difficult to bridge Then even their phone calls which were frequent at first became increasingly rare over time until they stopped altogether Therefore that delicate feeling that had united them as teenagers seemed destined to remain only a beautiful memory At the age of 19 and having put aside her crush on Andrea unlike her peers Beatrice still didn t have a boyfriend and was not interested in having one She preferred to avoid sentimental complications so as not to be conditioned by the expectations and decisions of others She had goals to achieve before she could fall in love first of all her studies then her career and last but not least her independence Beatrice knew the pain her mother had suffered for always putting love first She didn t want to make the same mistake But in love there are no rules it is practically impossible to choose when and with whom to fall in love because love is an instinctive feeling that arises when you least expect it that absorbs you body and soul that makes you do stupid things even and you cannot love or not love on command to avoid them Despite her stubbornness Beatrice s intentions are shattered when after receiving that message Andrea asks to see her again It takes little to awaken in the boy the strong feeling he had felt years before for his young friend at the same time Giorgio Beatrice s lifelong friend also declares to her that he feels something that goes far beyond mere friendship However she is not ready to start a romantic relationship neither with Andrea nor with Giorgio for whom she nevertheless feels a deep affection In order not to disappoint either of them and not to make any decisions about their statements she is convinced that she will be able to manage the friendship of both of them Without emotional involvement but it is only an illusion and the sentimental complications she so badly wanted to avoid will come crashing down on her without her realising it With love also comes jealousy which will make her make bad decisions And it is from that moment that things really start to get complicated

Coming Home to Earth Mark S. Bocker,2016-09-13 As a young Norwegian Lutheran teenager in rural Wisconsin Bocker lay awake one night worrying whether he believed in Jesus enough to get to heaven This getting to heaven anxiety reflected an excessive focus on individual salvation and a loss of concern for the well being of the Earth community A faith journey that leaves Earth behind is misguided Ever since those early teen years Bocker has been on a journey to come home to Earth Coming Home to Earth makes the case that there is no salvation apart from Earth and that Earth care is at the core of our identity and mission as followers of Jesus The ecological consequences of a loss of concern for the well being of Earth have been devastating Bocker is especially concerned to determine what will motivate followers of Jesus to make radical changes in our way of life so that we can participate in the healing of wounded Earth and all of its inhabitants both human and nonhuman We are far more likely to make needed sacrifices for our fellow creatures if we share God s delight in and affection for them and cherish Earth as our home
