Communication Technology Update, 10/e August E. Grant, Jennifer H. Meadows, 2006-06-21 Must have reports on the subtleties of the newest information technologies

Television Today and Tomorrow Gene F. Jankowski, David C. Fuchs, 1996-11-21 In recent years the media has been awash in exuberant tales of the arrival of the information superhighway when television will explode with exciting possibilities offering some 500 channels as well as a marriage of TV and computer that will provide on command access to the latest movies magazines newspapers books sports events stock exchange figures your bank account and much much more And the major TV networks pundits add will be doomed to extinction by this revolution in cable computers and fiber optics But in Television Today and Tomorrow Gene Jankowski former President and Chairman of the CBS Broadcast Group and David Fuchs also a former top executive at CBS tell a different story They predict a bumpy road ahead for the information superhighway and the major networks they say are abundantly healthy and will remain so well into the next century The information superhighway Jankowski and Fuchs admit will dramatically increase the distribution channels but it will have little impact on the amount of programming created and this may spell disaster The authors show how the networks began as a way to provide programs to local stations who could not afford to produce their own who in turn provided the distribution that gave networks access to mass audiences and ultimately large advertising dollars They then offer us an inside look at television production showing us for instance a veteran scriptwriter putting together a breakfast table scene for Cloud Nine to underscore how much effort goes into producing just two minutes of primetime programming They reveal that the present 20 channels require some 20 000 hours of programming each year which is more than all the Broadway plays produced in this century and they conclude that without a dramatic increase in programming which won't happen if only because of the very finite supply of talent the superhighway will be jammed bumper to bumper with reruns old movies and inexpensive programming aimed at tightly focused audiences narrowcasting as opposed to broadcasting This is hardly the bonanza the pundits have promised The authors point out that the media blitz about the new technology has hardly focused on programming or on funding or on what needs these 500 channels will fill The major networks on the other hand will remain the only means of reaching the whole country and the only channels that offer a full schedule of current live and original programs free of charge And thus they will continue to attract most of the audience of TV viewers The real loser in the cable revolution the authors contend is PBS whose role as an alternative to network TV has been usurped by cable stations such as The Discovery Channel and Nickelodeon This is a brass tacks look at television with an eye on the bottom line by two men who boast over sixty years of experience in the medium If you want to understand television in America where it came from and where it is going you will need to read this book

Antennas + TV Program Guides Ken N. Wickham, 2014-05-15 First volume book in a series aimed at providing alternatives to pay TV In this book you will learn the basics on how to analyze your TV sockets and features plan and choose a TV antenna find a list of where to buy antennas online and retail use free online websites and tools set up your TV to receive over the air signals and how to set up online and mobile TV programming show guides Detailed instructions of installing outdoor antennas is not covered in this book rather it lists the basic parts Content in this is specific only to regions within the United States Fox Canadian Law of Copyright and Industrial Designs John S. McKeown, Harold George Fox, 2003 Blue Skies Patrick Parsons, 2008-04-05 Cable television is arguably the dominant mass media technology in the U S today Blue Skies traces its history in detail depicting the important events and people that shaped its development from the precursors of cable TV in the 1920s and 30s to the first community antenna systems in the 1950s and from the creation of the national satellite distributed cable networks in the 1970s to the current incarnation of info structure that dominates our lives Author Patrick Parsons also considers the ways that economics public perception public policy entrepreneurial personalities the social construction of the possibilities of cable and simple chance all influenced the development of cable TV Since the 1960s one of the pervasive visions of cable has been of a ubiquitous flexible interactive communications system capable of providing news information entertainment diverse local programming and even social services That set of utopian hopes became known as the Blue Sky vision of cable television from which the book takes its title Thoroughly documented and carefully researched yet lively occasionally humorous and consistently insightful Blue Skies is the genealogy of our media society National Association of Broadcasters Engineering Handbook Graham A. Jones, David H. Layer, Thomas G. Osenkowsky, 2013-04-26 The NAB Engineering Handbook provides detailed information on virtually every aspect of the broadcast chain from news gathering program production and postproduction through master control and distribution links to transmission antennas RF propagation cable and satellite Hot topics covered include HD Radio HDTV 2 GHz broadcast auxiliary services EAS workflow metadata digital asset management advanced video and audio compression audio and video over IP and Internet broadcasting A wide range of related topics that engineers and managers need to understand are also covered including broadcast administration FCC practices technical standards security safety disaster planning facility planning project management and engineering management Basic principles and the latest technologies and issues are all addressed by respected professionals with first hand experience in the broadcast industry and manufacturing This edition has been fully revised and updated with 104 chapters and over 2000 pages The Engineering Handbook provides the single most comprehensive and accessible resource available for engineers and others working in production postproduction networks local stations equipment manufacturing or any of the associated areas of radio and television
