21. Answer: True. The authors explain that representing diversity as "otherness" is a
22. stereotypical characterization that does not fit with what we know about management.
23. Employees have different experiences, strengths, and backgrounds.
24. Problems arise when management assumes that people will act in the same way despite differences in the social context or the situation.
25. Although there is no simple answer, the authors recommend action 1:
26. Consider why different people experience problems in their workplace. This problem is not about
27. them but the organization's. Look at the "why" questions in the table of Management
28. Action Items. Action 1 is "Look at the workplace" which means: Develop thoughtful new management
29. actions.
30. For example, the authors of the table suggest a thoughtful response:
31. Look at the workplace that led to the problem.
32. Recognize that each individual has a story.
33. Engage with the team to fix the problem.
34. Consider how the team might change. Change the team.
35. Consider why the team might be different. Fix the
36. workplace. The team might be different. Fix the workplace.
37. Fix the workplace. The team might be different. Fix the workplace.
