

The sun is a star of average size and brightness. From Earth, the sun appears as a round, yellow object in the daytime sky. At night, we see other stars. They appear as tiny points of light.

Why does the sun appear larger than stars that we see at night?

- A. Daylight brightens the sun, making it appear larger.
- B. Starlight bends as it passes planets, making the stars appear smaller.
- C. The sun is closer to Earth than other stars, making the sun appear larger.
- D. Earth's atmosphere filters out light from other stars, making them appear smaller.

Global Approaches to Early Learning Research and Practice Kenneth R. Pugh, Peggy McCardle, Annie Stutzman, 2018-02-26 The health development and learning of many young children living in disadvantage areas are at serious risk Access to education has improved under the United Nations Millennium Development Goals and there are now programs in low and middle income countries that are aimed at improving instruction and learning The research and evaluation on the effectiveness of such programs show there are significant challenges but also some successes This issue features presentations of leading international scientists representatives from key governmental and non governmental organizations and others working with programs in the developing world and disadvantaged populations The presentations describe the goals existing challenges and potential approaches to providing evidence based programs to young children in rural remote and poverty stricken areas Topics covered include the state of early childhood in low and middle income nations programs that have shown some success and innovative research approaches that have been often considered unfeasible in these contexts This is the 158th volume in this Jossey Bass series New Directions for Child and Adolescent Development Its mission is to provide scientific and scholarly presentations on cutting edge issues and concepts in this subject area Each volume focuses on a specific new direction or research topic and is edited by experts from that field Cultural Validity in Assessment María del Rosario Basterra, Elise Trumbull, Guillermo Solano-Flores, 2011-04-12 This guide for educators looks at major issues in language testing and provides knowledge techniques and strategies to design and implement assessments for use in classrooms that maximize fairness and validity for all students 180 Days☐: Science for Fifth Grade Lauren Homayoun, 2018-04-02 180 Days of Science is a fun and effective daily practice workbook designed to help students explore the three strands of science life physical and earth and space This easy to use fifth grade workbook is great for at home learning or in the classroom The engaging standards based activities cover grade level skills with easy to follow instructions and an answer key to quickly assess student understanding Students will explore a new topic each week building content knowledge analyzing data developing questions planning solutions and communicating results Watch as students are motivated to learn scientific practices with these quick independent learning activities Parents appreciate the teacher approved activity books that keep their child engaged and learning Great for homeschooling to reinforce learning at school or prevent learning loss over summer Teachers rely on the daily practice workbooks to save them valuable time The ready to implement activities are perfect for daily morning review or homework The activities can also be used for intervention skill building to address learning gaps Aligns to Next Generation Science Standards NGSS Substance Misuse Prevention Program Attendance Marni L. Kan, Hsiu Chen Yeh, Lisa M. Schainker, Jessica Nelson, Samantha Charm, Cleve Redmond, Richard Spoth, 2022-12-19 Typical life circumstances for military families may impact their participation in prevention programs yet little is known about what factors influence their participation The current study examined predictors of attendance in the Strengthening Families Program For Parents and Youth 10-14 for Military Families a universal in person program designed to improve family functioning and reduce youth substance misuse and other problem behaviors. Participants included 159 parent-child dyads randomly selected to be offered the 7-week family program. Analyses examined demographic characteristics, deployment experiences, time spent waiting for the program to begin, and psychosocial functioning as predictors of attendance in a series of regression models. Of the 39 percent of families that attended any program sessions, the majority 71 percent attended at least four of the seven sessions. Attendance varied significantly across the geographic areas in which groups were held. Prior service utilization, youth conduct problem behavior, parental history of deployment, and family conflict were each positively associated with attendance, whereas parent tobacco use was negatively associated with attendance. These results highlight the challenges in recruiting military families into in-person prevention programs and suggest that extra efforts may be needed to engage families that do not perceive that they have a need for support.

Girls Have Academic Advantages and So Do Boys Jodie Fonseca, Laiba Bahrawar, Margaret M. Dubeck, Yasmin Sitabkhan, Christopher Cummiskey, Devanshi Unadkat, 2023-05-15. This paper contains a new analysis of gender differences in early grade reading and mathematics outcomes in 19 USAID-funded studies over the past decade from 14 locations in Africa, Asia, Latin America, and the Middle East. The paper addresses gaps in the literature related to learning patterns for girls and boys in lower and middle income countries and in early primary school. We analyzed the results from reading and mathematics assessments in grades 2 and 3, including differences in oral reading fluency, ORF, and quantitative comparison scores between boys and girls, as well as differences in score distributions by gender. In line with results from assessments in upper grades and in wealthier countries, we found that girls consistently outperformed boys in reading. In mathematics, boys slightly outperformed girls, although the differences were typically not large. Global experience has shown that patterns in poor performance become more entrenched the further learners progress through the grades, suggesting that early interventions for boys in reading and girls in mathematics could have long-term benefits. At the same time, both girls and boys typically score below expectations in the two subjects across countries, necessitating targeted strategies to improve outcomes for both genders early in their educational trajectories.
