American Coup William M. Arkin, 2025-05-01 A stunning exploration of the subtle erosion of freedom in an age of concocted fear and de facto military authority When we think of a military coup the first image that comes to mind is a general standing at a podium with a flag behind him declaring the deposing of elected leaders and the institution of martial law Think again In American Coup William Arkin reveals the desk bound takeover of the highest reaches of government by a coterie of grey men of the national security establishment Operating between the lines of the Constitution this powerful and unelected group fights to save the nation from terror and weapons of mass destruction while at the same time modifying and undermining the very essence of the country Many books are written about secrecy surveillance and government law breaking none so powerfully expose the truth of everyday life in this state of war

The African Diaspora in the United States and Canada at the Dawn of the 21st Century John W. Frazier, Joe T. Darden, Norah F. Henry, 2010-09-01 Offers important new perspectives on the African diaspora in North America Drawing on the work of social scientists from geographic historical sociological and political science perspectives this volume offers new perspectives on the African diaspora in the United States and Canada It has been approximately four centuries since the first Africans set foot in North America and although it is impossible for any text to capture the complete Black experience on the continent the persistent legacy of Black inequality and the winds of dramatic change are inseparable parts of the current African diaspora experience In addition to comparing and contrasting the experiences and geographic patterns of the African diaspora in the United States and Canada the book also explores important distinctions between the experiences of African Americans and those of more recent African and Afro Caribbean immigrants

Unprepared Andrew Lakoff, 2017-08-01 Recent years have witnessed an upsurge in global health emergencies from SARS to pandemic influenza to Ebola to Zika Each of these occurrences has sparked calls for improved health preparedness In Unprepared Andrew Lakoff follows the history of health preparedness from its beginnings in 1950s Cold War civil defense to the early twenty first century when international health authorities carved out a global space for governing potential outbreaks Alert systems and trigger devices now link health authorities government officials and vaccine manufacturers all of whom are concerned with the possibility of a global pandemic Funds have been devoted to cutting edge research on pathogenic organisms and a system of post hoc diagnosis analyzes sites of failed preparedness to find new targets for improvement Yet despite all these developments the project of global health security continues to be unsettled by the prospect of surprise

Federalism and the Tug of War Within Erin Ryan, 2011 As environmental national security and technological challenges push American law into ever more inter jurisdictional territory this book proposes a model of Balanced Federalism that mediates between competing federalism values and provides greater guidance for regulatory decision making

Catastrophic Incentives Jeff Schlegelmilch, Ellen Carlin, 2023-10-03 Silver Award Winner 2024 Nonfiction Book Awards Societies are vulnerable to any number of potential disasters earthquakes hurricanes infectious diseases terrorist attacks and many others Even though the dangers are often clear there is a persistent pattern of inadequate preparation and a failure to learn from experience Before disasters institutions pay insufficient attention to risk in the aftermath even when the lack of preparation led to a flawed response the focus shifts to patching holes instead of addressing the underlying problems Examining twenty years of disasters from 9 11 to COVID 19 Jeff Schlegelmilch and Ellen Carlin show how flawed incentive structures make the world more vulnerable when catastrophe strikes They explore how governments the private sector nonprofits and academia behave before during and after crises arguing that standard operational and business models have produced dysfunction Catastrophic Incentives reveals troubling patterns about what does and does not matter to the institutions that are responsible for dealing with disasters The short termism of electoral politics and corporate decision making the funding structure of nonprofits and the institutional dynamics shaping academic research have all contributed to a failure to build resilience Offering a comprehensive and incisive look at disaster governance Catastrophic Incentives provides timely recommendations for reimagining systems and institutions so that they are better equipped to manage twenty first century threats
