

Lab #23: Analyzing the "Pop" in Popcorn

Background Information:

In this experiment, you will use chemical gas law, $PV=nRT$, to determine the pressure inside the air-tightness bag.

Corn is a common foodstuff, added to the diet because of its appearance, which appears to change from a soft starch-like, moist off the cob, sweet taste, and pleasant. This softening process is called popping. It is achieved by increasing the water content of the starch granules, which are then heated to a temperature of about 180°C. The starch granules are then heated to a temperature of about 180°C, which causes the starch granules to expand and burst, creating a popping sound. The popping sound is caused by the expansion of the starch granules, which are then heated to a temperature of about 180°C.
