Tricia Nixon Takes Vows In Garden at White House

CITY TO DISCLOSE BUDGETARY TRIMS FOR DEPARTMENTS

Mayor's Aides Make Decision on Final Figures Scheduled to Be Announced Today

By HANCOCK GARDNER
Mayor Lindsay has announced his expectations for the level of all major city departments, to be announced tomorrow, to fall from the 1970 level by 10 percent. The city's fiscal year begins today.
"All of them made their plans in the month before the last of June," a source said. "They're all in good luck. Lindsay has got the word."
The $1.1-billion budget officially made public by the mayor will be limited by a law limiting budget deficits to offset the revenue shortage by increased bond issues, which requires the use from the $1.1-billion gap that Mr. Lindsay had just asked for more personnel and spending.
The details on cuts in the Mayor's office were

Vietnam Archive: Pentagon Study Traces 3 Decades of Growing U. S. Involvement

By NEIL R. McMEIKEN

A massive study of how the United States went to war in Indochina, conducted by the Pentagon three years ago, demonstrates that four administrations progressively developed a sense of commitment to a non-Communist Vietnam, a readiness to fight the North to protect the South, and an ultimate frustration with this effort—a much greater extent than their public statements acknowledged at the time.

The 1,500-page analysis, in which 4,000 pages of official documents are appended, was commissioned by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and covers the American involvement in Southeast Asia from World War II to mid-1969—the start of the peace talks in Paris after President Lyndon B. Johnson had set a limit on further military commitments and revealed his intention to retire. Most of the study and many of the appended documents have been obtained by The New York Times and will be described and presented in a series of articles beginning today.

Three pages of documentary material from the Pentagon study begin on Page 15.

Though far from a complete history, some 12 million words, the study forms a great archive of government decisions-making on Indochina over three decades. The study led to 10 to 15 volumes and references to many broad conclusions and specific findings, including the following:

That the Truman Administration's decision to give military aid to France in her colonial war against the Communist-led Vietminh "directly involved" the United States in Vietnam and "set" the course of American policy.

That the Eisenhower Administration's decision to rescue a fledgling South Vietnam from a Communist takeover and attempt to undermine the new Communist regime of North Vietnam gave the Administration a "direct role in the ultimate breakdown of the Geneva settlement" for Indochina in 1954.

That the Kennedy Administration, though ultimately spared from major escalation decisions by the death of its leader, transformed a policy of "limited-risk posture," which it inherited, into a "limited commitment" that left President Johnson with a choice between more war and withdrawal.

That the Johnson Administration, though the President was reluctant and hesitant to take the final decision, launched the covert warfare against North Vietnam and began planning in the spring of 1964 to wage overt war, a full year before it publicly revealed the depth of its involvement and its fear of defeat.

That this campaign of growing clandestine military pressure through 1964 and the expanding program of bombing North Vietnam in 1965 were begun despite the judgment of the Government's intelligence community that the measures would not cause them to cease its support of the Vietnam insurgency in the South, and that the bombing was
