The Future Conditional Eric S. Henry, 2021-05-15 In The Future Conditional Eric S Henry brings twelve years of expertise and research to offer a nuanced discussion of the globalization of the English language and the widespread effects it has had on Shenyang the capital and largest city of China's northeast Liaoning Province Adopting an ethnographic and linguistic perspective Henry considers the personal connotations that English has for Chinese people beyond its role in the education system Through research on how English is spoken taught and studied in China Henry considers what the language itself means to Chinese speakers How and why he asks has English become so deeply fascinating in contemporary China simultaneously existing as a source of desire and anxiety The answer he suggests is that English speaking Chinese consider themselves distinctly separate from those who do not speak the language the result of a cultural assumption that speaking English makes a person modern Seeing language as a study that goes beyond the classroom The Future Conditional assesses the emerging viewpoint that for many citizens speaking English in China has become a cultural need and more immediately a realization of one's future

Sugar Ben Richardson, 2015-10-26 There is more sugar in the world's diet than ever before but life is far from sweet for the exploited producers making nature's white gold and the unhealthy consumers eating it Why has the billion dollar sugar trade created such inequities In this insightful analysis Ben Richardson argues that the most compelling answers to this question can be found in the dynamics of global capitalism Led by multinational companies the mass consumption of sweetened snacks has taken hold in the Global South and underpinned a new wave of foreign investment in sugar production The expansion of large scale and highly industrialised farms across Latin America Asia and Africa has kept the price of sugar down whilst pushing workers out of jobs and rural dwellers off the land However challenges to these practices are gathering momentum Health advocates warning against costly diseases like diabetes trade unions fighting for better pay and local residents campaigning for a cleaner environment are all re-shaping the way sugar is consumed and produced But to truly transform sugar Richardson contends these political activities must also address the profit driven nature of food and farming itself
