Mary Lou Emery, 2014-01-30 The Caribbean Islands have long been an uneasy meeting place among indigenous peoples, white European colonists, and black slave populations. Tense oppositions in Caribbean culture—colonial vs. native, white vs. black, male conqueror vs. female subject—supply powerful themes and spark complex narrative experiments in the fiction of Dominica-born novelist Jean Rhys. In this pathfinding study, Mary Lou Emery focuses on Rhys's handling of these oppositions using a Caribbean cultural perspective to replace the mainly European aesthetic, moral, and psychological standards that have served to misread and sometimes devalue Rhys's writing. Emery considers all five Rhys novels, beginning with Wide Sargasso Sea as the most explicitly Caribbean in its setting, its participation in the culminating decades of a West Indian literarynaissance, and most importantly, in its subversive transformation of European concepts of character. From a sociocultural perspective, she argues persuasively that the earlier novels Voyage in the Dark, Quartet, After Leaving Mr. Mackenzie, and Good Morning, Midnight should be read as emergent Caribbean fiction written in tense dialogue with European modernism. Building on this thesis, she reveals how the apparent passivity, masochism, or silence of Rhys's female protagonists results from their doubly marginalized status as women and as subject peoples. Also, she explores how Rhys's women seek out alternative identities in dreamed-of, magically realized, or chosen communities. These discoveries offer important insights on literary modernism, Caribbean fiction, and the formation of female identity. Cognitive Wireless Networks

Boston Adventure 1944 The Mountain Lion 1947 and The Catherine Wheel 1952 Jean Stafford has been rediscovered by another generation of readers and scholars Although her novels and her Pulitzer Prize winning short stories were widely read in the 1940s and 1950s her fiction has received less critical attention than that of other distinguished contemporary American women writers such as Carson McCullers Flannery O Connor and Eudora Welty In this literary biography Charlotte M Goodman traces the life of the brilliant yet troubled Jean Stafford and reassesses her importance Drawing on a wealth of original material Goodman describes the vital connections between Stafford s life and her fiction She discusses Stafford s difficult family relationships her tempestuous first marriage to the poet Robert Lowell her unresolved conflicts about gender roles her alcoholism and bouts with depression and her amazing ability to transform the chaotic details of her life into elegant works of fiction These wonderfully crafted works offer insightful portraits of alienated and isolated characters most of whom exemplify not only human estrangement in the modern world but also the special difficulties of girls and women who refuse to play traditional roles Goodman locates Jean Stafford within the literary world of the 1940s and 1950s In her own right and through her marriages to Robert Lowell Life magazine editor Oliver Jensen and journalist A J Liebling Stafford associated with many of the major literary figures of her day including the Southern Fugitives the New York intellectual coterie and writers for the New Yorker to which she regularly contributed short stories Goodman also describes Stafford s sustaining friendships with other women writers such as Evelyn Scott and Caroline Gordon and with her New Yorker editor Katharine S White This highly readable biography will appeal to a wide audience interested in twentieth century literature and the writing of women s lives

Physics of Gravitating Systems I A.M. Fridman,V.L. Polyachenko,2012-12-06 It would seem that any specialist in plasma physics studying a medium in which the interaction between particles is as distance dependent as the inter action between stars and other gravitating masses would assert that the role of collective effects in the dynamics of gravitating systems must be decisive However among astronomers this point of view has been recognized only very recently So comparatively recently serious consideration has been devoted to theories of galactic spiral structure in which the dominant role is played by the orbital properties of individual stars rather than collective effects In this connection we would like to draw the reader's attention to a difference in the scientific traditions of plasma physicists and astronomers whereby the former have explained the delay of the onset of controlled thermonuclear fusion by the intrigues of collective processes in the plasma while many a generation of astronomers were calculating star motions solar and lunar eclipses and a number of other fine effects for many years ahead by making excellent use of only the laws of Newtonian mechanics Therefore for an astronomer it is perhaps not easy to agree with the fact that the evolution of stellar systems is controlled mainly by collective effects and the habitual methods of theoretical mechanics III astronomy must make way for the method of self-consistent fields The Technical Gazette of New South Wales, 1911 ENC Focus

,1995 Critical Perspectives on Jean Rhys Pierrette M. Frickey, 1990 Rhys acclaimed author of Wide Sargasso Sea Quartet and other novels treating the alienation of a woman from the Caribbean living in European settings has been a focus of interest both as a feminist writer and in the context of Caribbean literature Francophone Literature After the Postcolonial Age Farid Laroussi, 2024-12-15 Francophone Literature After the Postcolonial Age argues that Francophone literature extends beyond the postcolonial critical landmarks that helped define the field since the late 1980s Today Francophone literature maps out different paths that highlight its emancipation from both the Francophonie's cultural ascendancy and postcolonial theory's scholarly hegemony Farid Laroussi's argument is that three main forces have reshaped the French postcolonial in the twenty-first century digital globalization intertextuality and ecocriticism With digital globalization Francophone literature finds new voices unfettered from former aesthetic print and distribution dictates Home and the exilic paradigm are redefined in the postcolonial subject's own terms Intertextuality reconnects with poetic dialogism sans the mimicry burden The intertextuality challenge showcases a new writers community across time and cultures The old anxiety around one's own poetic voice now provides valid responses to literary reconfigurations The book's study cases operate around three specific pairings Segalen Glissant Kafka Maghreb literature and Morrison Miano Lastly ecocriticism along the decolonial discourse comes to discuss the place of the postcolonial home as well as the responsibility category The author contends that the attention to the land cannot be separated from imaginaries collective and individual Francophone writers stand at the crossroads of activism and poetics moving further away from French metropolitan preoccupations
