

Topic Ten: The State Labs (Part D)

I. Making Connections (aka The Clothespin Lab)

A) Part A

1. What you did: measured how exercise affected pulse rate.
2. What you learned: exercise increases pulse rate

B) Part A2

1. What you did: Squeezed a clothespin for 1 minute, then squeezed it again for another minute
2. What you learned:
 - If you squeezed more the second round, it may have been because your finger muscles were "warmed up" from increased circulation.
 - If you squeezed less the second round, it may have been because your finger muscles were fatigued.

C) Part B

1. What you did: Designed an experiment to test how exercise affects squeezing a clothespin.
2. What you learned: How to design an experiment (see pages 34-36).

II. Relationships and Bio-diversity (Botana curus lab)

A) What you did: Compared 4 species of plants, based on structural (physical) and molecular (chemical and genetic) traits.

B) What you learned:

1. Species that are related share similar traits.
2. Different techniques (such as gel electrophoresis and paper chromatography) can be used to determine relationships between organisms.
3. Endangered species should be protected because they may offer benefits to humans.

and ancient rock art sites face an urgent need to confront this crisis and each day that they don't more of our planet's common heritage disappears. Although heritage management and implementation suffer from a lack of money, time, personnel, information, and political will, The Future Has Other Plans argues that deeper causes to current problems lurk in the discipline itself. Drawing on decades of practical experience in global heritage management and case studies from around the world, Jon Kohl and Steve McCool provide an innovative solution for conserving these valuable protected areas. Merging interdisciplinary and evolving management paradigms, the authors introduce a new kind of holistic planning approach that integrates the practice of heritage management and conservation with operational realities. Co-Production of Public Services and Outcomes Elke Loeffler, 2020-10-03 This book examines user and community co-production of public services and outcomes, currently one of the most discussed topics in the field of public management and policy. It considers co-production in a wide range of public services with particular emphasis on health, social care, and community safety, illustrated through international case studies in many of the chapters. This book draws on both quantitative and qualitative empirical research studies on co-production and on the Governance International database of more than 70 international co-production case studies, most of which have been republished by the OECD. Academically rigorous and systematically evidence-based, the book incorporates many insights which have arisen from the extensive range of research projects and executive training programmes in co-production undertaken by the author. Written in a style which is easy and enjoyable to read, the book gives readers both academics and practitioners the opportunity to develop a creative understanding of the essence and implications of co-production. Bibliography of Scientific and Industrial Reports, 1946

It provides an integrated model of public knowledge production and engagement with science. As a growing worldwide phenomenon, it is invigorated by evolving new technologies that connect people easily and effectively with the scientific community. Catalysed by citizens' wishes to be actively involved in scientific processes as a result of recent societal trends, it also offers contributions to the rise in tertiary education. In addition, citizen science provides a valuable tool for citizens to play a more active role in sustainable development. This book identifies and explains the role of citizen science within innovation in science and society and as a vibrant and productive science policy interface. The scope of this volume is global.

geared towards identifying solutions and lessons to be applied across science practice and policy The chapters consider the role of citizen science in the context of the wider agenda of open science and open innovation and discuss progress towards responsible research and innovation two of the most critical aspects of science today Energy Research Abstracts ,1990
